

Ice arena to close

A standing room only crowd discussed the coming closing of the Wilmington Youth Ice Arena Monday night at the selectmen's meeting with varying attitudes. Over 80 persons were present to talk and present ideas about the closing of the rinks.

Ellen McMillan of Freeport Drive was the leadoff speaker. Over 500 Wilmington youngsters use that ice, she said, at least twice a week. She listed clubs and member numbers. Two hundred and three teams, in the (intertown) hockey league depend on the Wilmington rink, she said.

It was her hope that the town will consider buying or leasing the rinks. It is impossible to go elsewhere. Rinks all around are "booked up."

McMillan raised thoughts of buying the rinks through a state "self help" program. It might be possible to get up to 70 percent reimbursement.

Ron Swasey, recreation director of Wilmington told of the 1978 town meeting, where there had been hope of a 50 percent financing, "but the town turned it down."

Selectmen Stewart, DePasquale and Ballou were among the early talkers about the programs. Stewart had talked with Don Harridon, manager of the rink. He had wondered about contacting Mr. Crocker, owner of the rink, who was not well.

DePasquale discussed the possibility of forming a limited partnership to operate the skating rinks. There would have to be 40 persons, at least. He had also been talking about enlisting Wilmington firms, and said that Bernard Restuccia of Wilmington Ford was willing to discuss the idea of financing. Ballou spoke of the $10 thousand monthly utility (light) bill of the rinks. It was his expressed hope that there could be assistance in financing through the school building program (SBAB). When high schools are constructed he said, there is aid in rink construction. This had been discussed in the past, in connection with Wilmington High School.

More than a few speakers regarded the coming closing of the rinks as a case where industry was dictating to the program. Frank Armstrong of Woburn Street and Carol Redler of the Lake Street spoke, at times, in this theme.

Redler related the beginnings of the present program, headed up by Dave Trickett and Flo Ryan. Selectman Jim Banda and others had worked on an ice program. It was her contention that Crocker had been issued his permit to build a rink "as a favor." She suggested several times that the town take action to revoke his permit.

Redler told the meeting that the North Shore Figure Skating Club had wanted to buy the Forum ice rink in Billerica, but the club was unable to move. "Therefore this is a hardship."

"This permit can be pulled away," she said. "He was given it for a purpose." The records could be found she said, in the selectmen's minutes.

Buzz Stapeczynski had checked the 1969-70 records. He had found no references to Crocker, he reported. There was reference to Banda and to Dave Trickett, in May 1969.

Another speaker was Gerry Tully of West Street. The cleaning men, he charged,

"don't clean up." The general attitude of the rink, he said, was "to hell with Wilmington."

Wilmington, Tully said, "has produced a tremendous program for the town, for youth hockey and other ice sports." The two rink setup means with 22 to 24 hours of operation in a day, that, "if run by the town it certainly could pay for itself."

Joe Ferrara of Billerica is the coach for the Wilmington Youth Hockey. He told the selectmen there are 203 teams in the league. He has been trying to put together a program so the league can continue, and skate within a five mile area. "If it cannot be done it (the league, ed.) will have to dissolve."

Ferrara told the selectmen that he rents the rink for 90 hours a week, at $90 an hour.

Later that same evening, in a second talk, Ferrara claimed that the rink "was never managed." The Assabet Valley rink, he said, is fully automated. There is no "nine inch ice" there - a reference to a claim by another person that the ice had been allowed to get that thick in the middle part of the rink.

Ferrara had nice words to say about Crocker. "I don't want anyone to think ill about that man. This is bothering him, very much. He is an ill man."

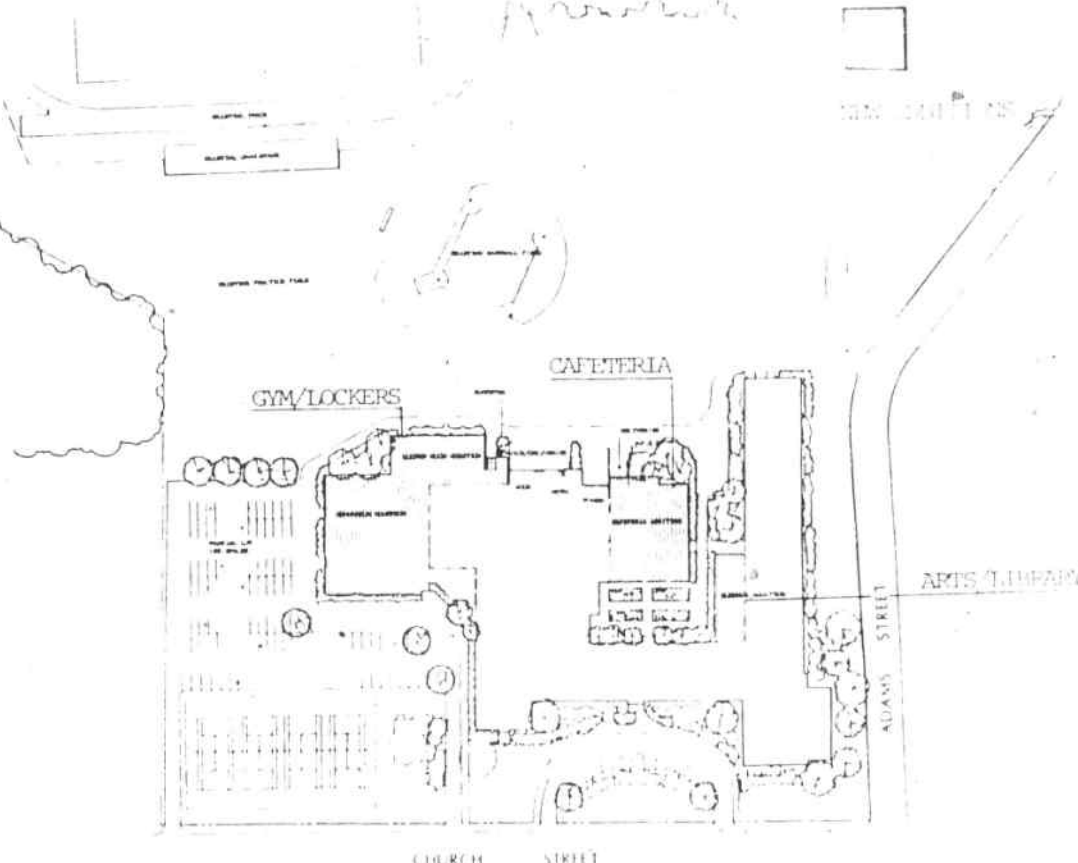

Ferrara told of a three hour meeting with Crocker, and Mr. Hamill who runs the pro shop at the rink, in an effort to keep the rink running.

Ron Swasey, Wilmington recreation director expressed his opinion that "he wants out," meaning, presumably, Mr. Crocker. The reason, Swasey said, is the 59 acres that Crocker owns. Crocker has troubles, and one of them is some of the kids, and the commercial firms that rent buildings from Crocker.

This closing meant that Wilmington will not have any commercial recreation, Swasey said. There are no bowling alleys, and now no ice rinks. "Something is happening, in an educational way."

Swasey felt that the board of selectmen should show Crocker it was not in his best interest to close the rink. "We can show him his scheme will work only if

Renovation stresses academics

The price of proposed renovations and additions to Wilmington High School is, at this time, a serious question. The town last fall enlarged the planned athletic facilities, in a town meeting vote. The net result was an increased cost, and a defeat in a Proposition 2 1/2 override referendum.

Those additional athletic facilities are not a part of the question today. The Permanent Building Committee plans are at a utilitarian minimum, designed to promote the educational facilities of the school.

An outstanding fault of the present building is its failure to provide for instruction of students, in today's sciences and mathematics. Modern science labs are needed, badly, to meet today's competitive standards. The library is totally inadequate. Health and safety standards must be improved. The cost, to the average home owner will be $1 per thousand valuation per year, for twenty years. For a home valued at $70 thousand, this equals $70 a year.

This paper, editorially, supports the renovation and improvement plans for Wilmington High School. It urges the people of Wilmington to support the proposals, in the Question 2 1/2 Override, on April 21.

Why is Phil Doherty running for Congress?

I am angry and ashamed to see our Congressmen hobnobbing and jogging around with the Communist leaders of Nicaragua. They should be home raising Cain about the outrageous medical costs our senior citizens have to pay. The only way I will visit Communist Nicaragua is with the 82nd Airborne. ### McGlone, Elk of the Year

Eddie McGlone of Carnation Drive, Tewksbury was surprised on March 17 by his fellow Elks. Eddie, who has never sought any office in the 61 years that he has been in the Tewksbury-Wilmington Elks Club, was honored as Elk of the Year. Over 340 persons were present at the special surprise party.

The choice of the Elk of the Year was by a committee of men who have had that honor conferred on them in the past. Eddie is the kind of man who calls in every day to find out if there is something he can do for the Elks and their friends. He visits people in hospitals. He visits the needy. He is the man who is always on hand to deliver fruit baskets. There is a lot of volunteer work, in the Tewksbury-Wilmington Elks, and Eddie McGlone is always the man who will do it.

Although his home is on Carnation Drive, Tewksbury, his real home, according to Past Exalted Ruler Walter Sharkey, is at 777 South Street, Tewksbury, the home of the Tewksbury-Wilmington Elks.

Fincom taps reserve fund to pay for April 10 town meeting

Before the Tewksbury Finance Committee could vote Tuesday to recommend the April 10 special town meeting use almost all of the remaining fiscal 1984 available funds to fund several articles on the warrant, they first had to transfer $1018 from their reserve account to pay for the meeting itself.

Selectmen voted to ask the fincom to transfer the funds from the reserve account in order to pay for the printing and mailing of the town warrant.

With little discussion, the fincom approved that transfer request and saw the reserve account slip to the $10,638 level. The account, used for emergency expenditures not covered in departmental budgets, contained $11,656 before the vote.

If town meeting goes along with the fincom recommendations on April 10, the reserve account will be just about the only source of emergency funds left in the town until July 1.

CLOCK TOCK

by THE CLOCKFOLK OF NEW ENGLAND

When we see a grandfather clock face, many times we see a face of a moon in the top arch. This face is painted on a turning disk which slowly revolves as the clock runs. As the disk turns a moon appears. This rise (or waxing) and falling (or waning) of the moon indicates the phase of the moon - whether it is first quarter, full moon, last quarter, or new moon. New moon is no moon visible in the sky. This is indicated on the clock by either a landscape or a seascape scene. Numbers cresting the arch, range from one to 29. These are the approximate number of days between full moons.

The moon phase mechanism occasionally was included in clocks before the 15th Century, but became popular about 1750. Though traditional today, much superstition surrounded the use of the moon's phases on early clocks, particularly in relation to farmers. It was believed that seeds would germinate quicker and be healthier when sown during the waxing of the moon. One needs only to consult an old almanac to discover hundreds of moon-related advice to the farmer and householder. Probably the most practical use of the moon phase indications was the aid to a traveler who had to depend on the light of the moon in days when street lighting was non-existent and lanterns had limited affect outdoors.

Next: What is the origin of the cuckoo clock?

David Boeri's book

It is a whale of a tale, and that's no pun.

Dave Boeri, of Lloyd Avenue, Wilmington spent the winter at home two years ago, writing a book. He had just returned from three winters in Alaska, in the village of Gambell, on the island of St. Lawrence. Dave had a contract for the book he planned to write.

Many of those people who have lived in Wilmington for a quarter of a century know Dave Boeri. He was of the high school class of 1967 and as a junior he organized a parade, for some reason which escapes memory. The class marched from Weinberg's Department Store to the high school, with some brass music, and a lot of enthusiasm, arriving at the high school about 7:45 a.m.

David, said some, was an organizer.

After graduating from high school he went on to college, and two degrees. Then, after some fun deep sea fishing, he became a college teacher near Juneau, Alaska. That may have been the inspiration for his trip all the way north, to Barrow and to Saint Lawrence Island.

At home, two years ago, he received permission to use the Bicentennial Room at the Wilmington Library, in which to write his book. He was also named a library trustee, to fill a vacancy.

The library staff has not forgotten him. David, they say, was an organizer.

His tale is a first hand account of his meeting with Eskimos, and of partaking with them in whale hunts. The Bowhead Whale, otherwise known as the Right Whale, is their special target, and their staff of life.

The International Whaling Commission (IWC) was organized to save the whales. The Eskimos were finding themselves in the same position as did the Plains Indians nearly a century ago, when the buffalo was almost entirely extinct.

David tells vividly of the attempts by conservationists to save the whales. Some of the efforts are good, and some are not.

The IWC, based in Washington DC, sent inspectors to make certain that no natives killed more whales than were allowed. David, in a kindly manner, relates the efforts to those who would keep the Plains Indians from hunting buffalo. David's sympathies are with the eskimos. There is no sympathy for the commercial hunters, who, David says, had become beasts.

Some of the conservationists had become activists. While sympathetic to the plight of the Eskimos, they talked about substituting food stamps for bowheads. Others wanted the villages provided, by the government, with beef, mutton and pork.

David carries the reader through the sometimes stirring sometimes comical events of federal agents trying to solve the problems of enforcing the laws. There are dramatic shows of civil disobedience, by the natives.

And, it must be said, the book is well organized.

David Boeri and his wife Islay, whom he married in Scotland, are now residents of Seattle, Washington. He is free lancing, in print and in television and is a producer-reporter at the local PBS station, the counterpart of WH-DH (Channel 2) in Seattle. Mrs. Boeri is a circulation manager, for two magazines.

New water meters for Tewksbury

Work on the town's water meter replacement program is set to begin next Tuesday, according to Department of Public Works (DPW) Supt. Phil Pattison. Pattison said about 4000 homes in Tewksbury will be getting the new tamper proof water meters.

Although the work is to begin next Tuesday, next Wednesday is expected to be the first full day of work.

The new meters will do away with the old tradition of a water meter reader entering the homes of residents with meters in the house. All the new meters will be read from the outside without bothering the people in their homes.

Each meter reader will carry a device which is termed a "hand gun" or an "encoder." The device is inserted into a two by three inch black receptacle attached to the side of the home and will record the data contained on the meter which will typically be placed in the cellar. Among that data will be a code that identifies the home where that meter is and the amount of water that passed through the meter since the last reading.

Back at the DPW office, the data contained on the tapes will be transcribed onto bills.

Hopefully, says Pattison, the meters will all be installed by June 30.

Funds to purchase the meters were finally authorized by the special town meeting of December 12, 1983. Town meeting voters had previously authorized the purchase of the meters. But, some legal questions arose over that vote, prompting the re-authorization vote last December.

The meters are being supplied by the Neptune Meter Company of Alabama. Doing the installation work will be Central Installations of Fraser, Michigan.

Pattison assures residents that there will be absolutely no damage to any private property resulting from the installation.

Four local persons will do the work, under the supervision of two local inspectors. The Neptune Company will be schooling those four persons on Monday in preparation for the start of the program on Tuesday.

Two local residents, Philip Doherty, 41 and Ernest Peterson, about 60, will be the Tewksbury inspectors. They will make certain that the job is done correctly and that nothing else in any home is disturbed.

The installation teams will use private cars that will display a magnetic plaque on the side identifying them as working as a private contractor for the Town of Tewksbury Public Works Department as water meter installers.

The installation teams will work from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m., six days a week. They will be paid on a piecework basis, based on the number of installations made. Pattison said the average installation job will take about 45 minutes and that he is hopeful of getting more employees in an effort to finish the task by June 30.

There will also be a secretary for the installation team housed in the DPW building. Among other things, that secretary will contact homeowners to make an appointment for the installation. Once the program gets rolling, residents can request special appointments be made for before 9 a.m. and after 6 p.m.

This program, however, will not outfit the entire town with new meters. Pattison has prepared a town meeting article asking the town to purchase another 1800 meters, so that the entire town will be equipped with the new meters.

One of the prime reasons behind the water meter replacement program is the fact that a high percentage of homes in town either do not have a water meter, have one that is not working, or have one that is not working properly.

Why does car insurance cost more?

Selectman Robert Cain wants the town of Wilmington to find out how Wilmington's residents are now assessed, on auto insurance costs. Wilmington's insurance rate has changed, and Cain believes it could be that Wilmington car owners are paying for accidents which occur on Routes 93, 129 and 38.

Accident insurance policies, in Massachusetts, used to be assessed by the home town of the car owners, Cain said, in the selectmen's meeting on March 26. He did not know whether or not this was continuing. He felt the town should have certain knowledge, to see whether or not Wilmington car owners are being unduly charged for insurance.

Cain's remarks came as a result of a letter from the City Council of Chicopee, sent to many cities and towns, a letter which was read by the town manager. The aldermen of Chicopee, he reported, in effect said "We've had it!"

They were suggesting a "grass roots" protest against "exorbitant charges" in the compulsory insurance rates in Massachusetts.

Rating of insurance rates in Massachusetts are by "territories," of which there are 25. The higher the number of the territory the higher the insurance costs are, Cain said.

Wilmington, until last year was in Territory 7. Now it is in Territory 8. Last year the compulsory cost for a car was $245. Now it is $290.

Reading and North Rading, Cain said, are in Territory 5. Tewksbury was in 8 and so was Billerica, but the latter town is now in 9.

Cain says that Wilmington insurance rates have increased 28 percent in the past year. He has spoken about this to State Senator Robert Buell. He and Town Manager Buzz Stapezynski will write a letter about the insurance costs to Buell.

Educational Update

by Dr. Carol Sager
Superintendent of Schools

What does expanding a cafeteria have to do with improving SAT scores? was the question asked at a recent parents meeting at which plans for the proposed high school renovation were discussed. Although it might not seem obvious, the size of a high school cafeteria has a direct impact on the total instructional day.

While students need to eat a good lunch, the time allotted for doing so should be kept to a minimum in order to maximize the amount of school time spent in the classroom.

It takes approximately 25 minutes for students to purchase lunch, eat leisurely and clear their trays. Most schools have facilities which allow for 25 minute lunch periods. Wilmington does not.

Right now the cafeteria at Wilmington High School consists of a small kitchen facility between two eating areas, one for 240 students and one for 50. Health and safety hazards exist. The layout is poor and causes inefficiency in food preparation and service, and the area is so small that three 45 minute lunches are needed to feed the students at the high school. This severely impacts the master schedule and the instructional day.

The plans for the renovation include the removal of health and safety hazards, remodeling the food preparation area for more efficiency, and enlarging the eating area so that all students can be fed in two 25 minute sittings.

What does this mean for the students and for SAT scores? Research shows that one of the most significant ways to improve educational outcomes is to increase time on task. Twenty minutes a day for 180 days translates into 60 additional instructional hours a year or 240 additional instructional hours grades nine through 12. That's a lot of time!

Under the direction of Mr. David Moriarty, English Department Head seven through 12, new guidelines for improving SAT scores are already underway. There will be a semester elective course designed primarily for juniors for SAT preparation and review; but the rise of SAT scores in the future will be the result of much broader academic efforts.

In all English classes there will be a renewed emphasis on (1) reading that develops vocabulary and expands knowledge, and (2) writing that expresses ideas clearly and correctly.

Instead of the current system of electives, a Communication Skills III class has been proposed for all juniors.

Books used at the secondary level are currently under examination with the intent of broadening and intensifying the reading of all students grades seven through 12.

Advanced placement (AP) courses are being updated to provide a greater academic challenge.

Improved SAT scores can only result from intensive, rigorous study over an extensive period of time.

Should the inefficiencies of a high school cafeteria be allowed to rob students of precious instruction time?

We're wasting time, and time is what we can't afford to lose.

Time is our students' future.

letter to the editor

Dear Larz:

The high school renovation seems to be on everyone's lips these days. I am happy to hear of so much public support this time around, but it disturbs me to still hear people picking the project apart saying "we don't need this part or that part" or "it's too much money," or "we don't need such an elaborate plan."

After attending many meetings over the last year, it is obvious to me that the Permanent Building Committee, working closely with the School Committee, Selectmen, Finance Committee, teachers and administrators, has, through their architects, developed an extremely tight and utilitarian plan to remedy the physical problems at the high school. It is important to realize that we must meet minimum state requirements for high schools to be able to qualify for approximately 50 percent reimbursement from the state.

Just what are some of these minimum requirements? For example, science must be taught in a laboratory classroom larger than that needed for other instruction - the state sets a size of 1,200 square feet for such a laboratory. These minimums, and many others like it, have been in existence for decades and virtually every school in the state has been built to these standards. The state also sets requirements for the number of classrooms based upon the school population. Therefore, with both the size and number of spaces set by the state minimums, it is easy to see that complying with these requirements for financial reimbursement will determine just what has to be built.

There is no guesswork in a plan such as this. The committee has not frivolously put anything and everything they wanted into this renovation. They have carefully followed guidelines and formulas prescribed by the state. They should be commended for the efficient and creative use they have made of the existing structure.

I hope the people of Wilmington will realize that this project in no way gives our students a resort to play in - it merely brings our high school up to minimum standards. I, too, urge all or fellow townspeople to vote yes for the high school renovation on April 21.

Sincerely,
Joanne S. Neale

Easter Egg hunt

The annual Easter egg hunt, for the Town of Wilmington, will take place on April 14, at 2 p.m. on Wilmington Common. The selectmen, on March 26 granted permission to Recreation Director Ron Swasey to use the common at that time.

letters to the editor

Dear Larz:

Mr. Thomas Girard, vice chairman of the Tewksbury Board of Selectmen, recently submitted a letter to the local papers in which some distorted and false statements were made and I feel they should be addressed at this time.

Mr. Girard refers to a letter to the editor printed on March 13 and authored by, as he claims, a Tewksbury firefighter he refers to as an unfortunate correspondent that expresses the negative opinions of a small group that certainly does not value the best interest of fellow town employees or the townspeople at large.

Mr. Girard, I would like to make it perfectly clear to you, that the correspondence of March 13, just as this letter, expressed only my view and the view of my family. I also question your statement that you do not treat firefighters as second class citizens. All taxpayers of the town should be allowed to express their views regardless of their employment whether it be a town employee or employment in the private sector.

I suggest to you that you do not value the best interest of all town employees when you take the views of one individual and distort them for your own political gains.

As I said in my previous correspondence I am concerned about your lack of leadership in addressing this most serious problem of the possible closing of any fire station and leaving that particular section of town unprotected. Politics has no place when it comes to public safety.

Edward J. Kearns,
Tewksbury resident and taxpayer

Dear Larz:

The principals of the Wilmington Public Schools wholeheartedly support the high school building renovations and additions as proposed by the Permanent Building Committee and supported by Superintendent of Schools, Dr. Carol Sager, Wilmington's School Committee, Board of Selectmen and Finance Committee.

Although the high school offers our students an education of the highest quality, the facility is severely inadequate. If not brought to current minimum state standards, the high school could be in danger of losing its accreditation in the future.

The time to act is now!

Our concerns are the following:

1. The present library is smaller than most elementary libraries in proportion to student population. Its size does not allow for the purchase of additional books and materials or the establishment of a much needed media center.

2. The cafeteria is extremely undersized and inadequate to efficiently service the student population. At present 360 students are served in each of the three separate 45 minute lunch periods in two separate areas that are extremely overcrowded.

3. The science labs are virtually non-existent. The only two working labs are used exclusively for chemistry. Other sciences are taught in modified classrooms located throughout the building.

4. The existing industrial arts program is hampered by its inadequate size and design restrictions which create safety hazards and course limitations. Purchase of additional equipment is impossible.

5. The music department at the high school is presently located in one room. A new music suite is a necessity for our integrated performing arts program. This would also provide much needed security for musical supplies and equipment.

6. Currently the entire art department is limited to two substandard rooms, severely restricting the efficiency of the instructional process and course offerings.

7. The present gym, locker rooms and athletic facilities are totally inadequate program offerings. Locker rooms are obsolete, team rooms are non-existent and spectator space is insufficient.

We know that, in order for our students to compete effectively, they need and deserve an updated building with facilities that are commensurate and competitive with today's changing society.

Respectfully submitted,

Joseph Connolly, principal, North Intermediate School;
Richard L. DeRose, acting principal, Wilmington High School;

Allen is Archspigot of Wilmington

George R. Allen, chairman of the Board of Water Commissioners of Wilmington has acquired a new title: The Archspigot of Wilmington.

An engineer, vice president of a Massachusetts engineering firm, he serves his hometown without pay. He is the person who is responsible for the construction of a water purification plant in Wilmington. That plant removes all iron ore (rust), manganese and volatile carbons in two-thirds of the water supply for the people of Wilmington.

Wilmington residents complained to the selectmen some years ago about rust in the water. They had bottles of the vile looking stuff.

Allen knew what to do, and hired an engineering firm to design a plant to get rid of the rust. It would cost, if memory serves correctly, $4 millions.

The town meeting wanted to save money and refused. It refused to vote for the plant. Some who voted against were of that party which had complained a couple of years previously.

Allen did not give up. Two years later, after a scare about trichloroethylene (TCE), the town voted for the plant. By that time, thanks to inflation, the cost had increased to $6 millions.

The plant was constructed and went on line in 1981. A state subsidy was received which cut

Wilmington school notes

On April 20, voters in Wilmington will go to the polls to elect town officials and to consider a question dealing with renovations and additions to Wilmington High School. The proposed project will cost taxpayers an estimated 6.5 million dollars. Because of the magnitude of this proposed project, there have been many questions asked dealing with the project. Perhaps some of these questions can be answered here.

Will the construction of this building guarantee higher SAT scores for Wilmington High School students?

The school committee has researched the causes for the decline in SAT scores in Wilmington and has proposed curriculum changes in math and English that are hoped will have a beneficial effect. A building does not provide education, it is simply where education takes place. There is little doubt that improvement in an educational facility will improve the quality of education received by students. The natural extension of this thought is that the better the education the better the SAT scores will be. There can never be a guarantee that SAT scores will improve, but it certainly makes sense to assume that when a student receives a better education in math he will achieve higher SAT scores in math.

With declining enrollment figures, why do we need to add more space to Wilmington High School?

The proposed new additions to Wilmington High School total $2,106,000 of the projects cost. Yes, enrollment has been on the decrease, but many educational experts seem to think that this trend is leveling off. What is being added to W.H.S. is specialized spaces; new boys and girls locker room; a cafeteria, the present one is too small and its inadequate seating capacity has hampered scheduling; increased physical education facility; an art-instructional materials center, this addition would double the size of the present library but still make it only meet minimum state standards.

Why can't the project be stretched out over a long term period to lessen the burden on the taxpayers?

This possibility has been explored by the Permanent Building Committee. The findings were that it would exactly cost the taxpayers more money. The state has indicated that it will not reimburse such a project until it is totally completed. With the phase idea of the project, Wilmington have to wait five years or what ever the length of the project to be eligible for its reimbursement money.

If my children are no longer in school why should I care about improving the high school?

The quality of education provided by a town is directly linked to value of houses in that town. Taxpayers without children being educated in Wilmington can expect to see an increase in their own property values. The investment that is made now will pay dividends later when a homeowner can expect to receive a higher selling price for his property. A high school is the heart of any community. One of the first things many prospective buyers probe is the quality of education available in a community. The desirability of a community is decreased by an exceptional school system.

George Allen, Wilmington Water Commissioner (far right) on tour of the Wilmington water filtration plant with (l. to r.) Tewksbury Selectman Bill Hallisey, Wilmington Water Commissioner Arthur Smith and Tewksbury D.P.W. Superintendent Phil Pattison.

the cost in half, to $3 millions.

Two-thirds of the water now pumped to Wilmington residents is without rust, manganese, or volatile organics. North Wilmington residents do not have that security. That, for Allen, is the next program for the water commissioners.

On March 15 a story in the Town Crier told the Tewksbury officials at the plant. A picture was taken, which appeared in the Tewksbury edition of the Town Crier. That was the day the Boston radio and tv stations were talking about the new archbishop of Boston.

A question was asked: Who is the person at the right, in that picture. The editor had the answer.

That, he announced, is the new Archspigot of Wilmington. George Allen has a new name.

WHAT TRAFFIC PROBLEM?!

One of the biggest problems, in my point of view, is the traffic congestion "all" over Wilmington.

What has been done to alleviate it? NOTHING!

Some examples . . . . .

The AMC dealership on Route 38 shows the present Selectmen do not vote according to the townspeople's wishes. In November, the people voted, overwhelmingly AGAINST this particular dealership. A few weeks later, the area was being stocked with AMCs. Why don't the Selectmen have enough foresight to realize what they are doing by permitting two new car dealerships, an ice cream parlor, business condominiums, and buildings! . . . buildings! . . . buildings! . . . all along Rte. 38.

There has been talk about the Old Boston Road Bridge being reopened. That, in my opinion, would not only heighten an already bad traffic situation, it would definitely create complete havoc since it would only serve as a short cut for the Woburn Industrial Park.

A traffic light has been installed across the street from AVCO. How has that helped the people of Wilmington? It has only hindered the traffic flow. Do the Board of Selectmen "really" have the best interests of the residents at heart, or are they catering to industry?

An article in the Lowell Sun on March 14th indicated that the Center of Wilmington should be developed (i.e., overpasses, bridges, etc.). Have we been assured that there will be State and Federal funds available for this project? "My God!" we can't even get the Burlington Avenue bridge on Route 62 made safe enough for school buses!

I haven't seen any new bridges or overpasses being built - all I have seen is a lot of new buildings going up which is causing even more chaos for the residents. My question is, "Aren't we putting the cart before the horse?" Wilmington is not a city, but a town with a TOWN'S POCKETBOOK!

At our last Town Meeting, the people stated STATED LOUD AND CLEAR - STOP bringing industry into town. You aren't being HEARD are you?

We have these problems throughout the ENTIRE town.

My answer to this is LETS STOP ALL INDUSTRIAL BUILDING. ENOUGH IS ENOUGH!

Lets STOP selling off town owned land. For your own sake, turn out in FORCE on April 21st for the town election and on April 28th for the town meeting.

Running for fitness lecture at RHWC

A free lecture on "Running for Fitness" will be held at the Regional Health Center in Wilmington Monday, April 2 from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. featuring Thomas Thrall, M.D., and Mark Manfredi, R.P.T. of Physical Therapy.

Avid runners themselves, both have treated patients who have suffered from running injuries. They will emphasize prevention and causes of common running injuries. Dr. Thrall and Mark Manfredi will discuss the importance of shoe selection and warm-up; and benefits of exercise for the cardiovascular system.

Handouts will be available on the importance of proper equipment, what to look for in running shoes, proper footplant and the mechanics of running.

This lecture is appropriate for those contemplating a running program as it is for those who have been running for years. A question and answer period will follow the lecture.

Brochures will be available on the Lifecourse, the one-and-one-half mile jogging trail on the grounds of the Regional Health Center in Wilmington. It is free and open to the public for walking, running, jogging, and cross-country skiing. There are 20 exercise stations which encourage warm-up and cool-down and exercises of different levels which enhance cardiovascular fitness. (The entrance to the Lifecourse is by the staff parking area and driveway. The Lifecourse should be used during daylight hours only.)

Other fitness programs at the Regional Health Center include Fitness After 50 and Aerobic Dancing. New classes begin every eight weeks and classes are held both morning and evening for beginners and advanced levels.

To pre-register for the "Running for Fitness" lecture or for more information on the Lifecourse or aerobic exercise programs, call 657-3910, ext. 567.

Wilmington Figure Skating Club

Locals compete for national championship

Three local skaters, all members of the Wilmington Figure Skating Club, will be journeying to Bowling Green, Ohio to vie for the gold, silver and bronze medals in the first-ever National Team Championships.

Jennifer Armstrong of Wilmington, Leanne Babine of Tewksbury and Gretchen Ede of North Reading, all team members of the Haydenettes Precision Team, captured the bronze medal recently in Buffalo, New York in the Eastern United States Sectional championships, thus qualifying the team for the United States Championships to be held in Bowling Green next month.

This is the first time that the team championships will be held at the national level. The gold, silver and bronze medalists from the Pacific Coast section, the midwest section and the east coast section (nine top teams in the country) will meet in Ohio to determine the country's first National Champion.

The Haydenettes Team in 1983 captured the gold medal in Hartford to become the first Eastern United States Champions. No competition at the national level was held that year.

The Haydenettes also journeyed to Lake Placid, New York to finish a respectable sixth in international competition. At that time, they were the highest ranking team in the country, the five teams finishing before them all coming from Canada.

Bellissimo joins select circle

Former Wilmington High School coaching great Fred Bellissimo will join a very select group Saturday afternoon, April 7 when he is inducted into the Massachusetts' High School Football Coaches Association Hall of Fame. Bellissimo will be honored at the annual clinic luncheon to be held at the Boston College 'Eagles Nest' beginning at 12:15 p.m.

Bellissimo, a graduate of Belmont High School and Notre Dame, coached the Wildcats from 1956 until his retirement from the coaching ranks at the end of the 1977 season. During that span Bellissimo compiled a 122-61-15 slate, winning seven league championships, rolling to four undefeated seasons and coaching a Super Bowl team in 1976.

Fred coached six all-star teams that included the Agganis star squad and the Lowell Sun Charities team, a club that he coached five times. The former coaching great was named the Italian-American Coach of the Year (Massachusetts) in 1971.

Some of the top players who displayed their skills under Bellissimo included running backs Mike Esposito (Boston College, Atlanta Falcons) and Jack Bowen (Wyoming University).

Some of the area coaching greats who have already been selected to the hall include Tewksbury's Charlie Hazel (1967), Chelmsford's Thomas Eck (1970), Billerica's Chuck Lampson (1971), Lowell's Ray Riddick (1977) and Dracut's Ed Murphy (1982).

Bellissimo wouldn't be caught dead in a tower high above the field overseeing his team and simply supervising and delegating authority. He got right down on the field with the boys, riding a sled and barking out instructions in a distinctive voice that could bite through a frigid November gale.

Anyone who played under Bellissimo got a feel for what a tough taskmaster he was, but perhaps the bottom line was that he won the respect of many a Wilmington High School football player along the way. It is an honor well earned.

Lukens caps remarkable season

Tewksbury High School senior Beverly Lukens put the caper on a superb track season recently with her fifth place finish in the 55 meter (60 yards) dash at the Pathmark High School Classic National Invitational Championship Meet in Princeton, New Jersey.

Beverly qualified for the meet with a time of 7.4 seconds, then ran a 7.25 race in her preliminary heat before clocking a fine 7.24 time in the finals against some of the best sprinters in the country. Beverly was just recently named to the Boston Globe All-Scholastic team.

Derrah distance ace

Tewksbury's Bob Derrah is also about ready to put the finishing touches on an outstanding track career at Austin Prep.

The Boston Globe All-Scholastic in the two mile was undefeated in dual meet competition this past winter while also winning the Dartmouth Relays (9:24.7) and the State Coaches Meet (9:17.8).

Derrah also clocked the second fastest time of the day in the Class C State Meet, finishing in 9:26.8. He placed sixth at Princeton, and was the second Massachusetts runner to place in the meet.

MVC football schedule

The 1984 Merrimack Valley Conference football schedule was announced this past week, and the road to the top will not be at all easy for the Redmen and the Wildcats.

Tewksbury will take on Lawrence, Chelmsford, Methuen, Central Catholic, Lowell, Dracut, Greater Lawrence, Billerica, Andover and of course the Wildcats at Wilmington Thanksgiving morning.

Wilmington battles Greater Lawrence, Lawrence, Haverhill, Andover, Billerica, Chelmsford, Methuen, Lowell, Dracut and the Redmen.

Wilmington hoopsters hang tough

The Wilmington eighth grade traveling basketball team took part in the Woburn Boys Club Winter Tournament this past week. After beating Newton in the quarterfinals, the boys went down to defeat in the semifinal at the hands of their old nemesis Wakefield. In the Newton game, the boys were leading through most of the game, in fact ahead by eight points at the three-quarter mark, only to let Newton off the hook, as the city kids stormed back in the fourth quarter to force a 39-39 tie at the final buzzer.

In the overtime period, Wilmington jumped ahead quickly and held on for 49-45 victory. Leading the scoring for the winners was Mike Lombard with 16 points, while pulling in 17 rebounds and blocking five shot attempts in a fine performance.

Pat Nally followed with nine points, Danny Woods and Don Corson each hit for seven, Kevin Ouellette had four and Tony DeSantis and Tim Moran bucketed three each. Helping under the boards was Nally with four rebounds along with three assists, and Corson with three boards. Helping in the assist department were Corson, DeSantis and Tom Moran with two each. Doing a fine job defensively were Eric Pentinen, Tom Moran, Jim Fay, Paul Maiella and Jon Oliver.

In the semifinal game, the eighth graders took another whipping from well-drilled team from Wakefield, 59-32. The

Club skaters outstanding

Several girls representing the Wilmington Figure Skating Club recently competed in several skating competitions in and around the New England and New York area. With their fine performances the girls continued to make the local club members skaters to be contended with.

Lindsay McCracken of Andover entered the Champlain Valley Open held in Burlington, Vermont and again brought home a gold medal in the juvenile figures category.

Lindsey and Julie Palmquist of Andover and Mari Fukuda of Tewksbury competed in the 1984 New England Juvenile Figure Skating Championships sponsored by the North Shore Skating Club. The competition was held at the Town Line Rinks in Danvers. Lindsay captured the second place silver medal in the juvenile category.

Last weekend Amanda Farkas of Wilmington traveled to Hicksville, N.H. to enter the Nassau County Freeskating Championship competition. Amanda won a second place silver medal in her category.

The Wilmington Figure Skating Club has announced that rehearsals are now underway for the club's semi-annual ice extravaganza to be held this year on Saturday, April 28, and Sunday, April 29 at the Youth Ice Arena in Wilmington.

Those who have seen the shows in the past know that some of the finest local talent skates for the club, and the ice productions are always exciting to watch. Information regarding tickets may be obtained by calling the club office at 657-4556 between 3:30 and 5:30 p.m., Tuesday through Friday each week.

Tewksbury Squirts State Champions

Every boy dreams of being on a championship hockey team. The 1983-84 season has been a dream come true for the 14 boys on the Tewksbury Squirt II team. They have spent many long hours practicing their skating, shooting, passing and learning how to play as a team. Their efforts recently paid off with a Division II State Championship.

Tewksbury 10 Lexington-Bedford 1

Friday night March 9, Tewksbury met Lexington-Bedford at the Tully Forum. Tewksbury took a quick lead one minute, 16 seconds into the game when Eddie Henderson scored assisted by defenseman Billy Flynn. The next goal was scored halfway through the first period by defenseman Anthony Lodi, assisted by Robert Bussey. This goal was followed quickly by a score from Kevin Nazarro, with the assists going to Matt Ferro and Anthony Lodi.

With just over two minutes left in the period, goal number four was scored by Matt Ferro assisted by Brian Andriolo. The second period saw Lexington-Bedford come back with a quick score. That was to be their only goal, as Tewksbury picked up two more scores in the second period, the first by Andriolo, assisted by Lodi and Ferro, and the second by defenseman Jason Hyde, unassisted.

Tewksbury led 6-1 early in the final period before popping home four more goals to complete the rout. Jason Hughes, assisted by Robert Bussey, Marc McConnell, (from Brian Andriolo), Robert Bussey, (Mark Boucher) and Eddie Henderson (assisted by George DeGregorio and Jason Hyde) netted the Tewksbury goals.

Goalie Ricky Killian turned in another super game in the 10-1 Tewksbury victory.

Tewksbury 5 Framingham 2
Game two against Framingham was played March 10 at the Hallenborg Rink, with the tough Framingham club taking a 1-0 lead after one period.

Tewksbury charged back in the second period, scoring a goal two minutes and 41 seconds into the period when Robert Bussey popped one home assisted by Jason Hyde and Anthony Lodi. This score was followed by a goal from Brian Andriolo, assisted by Matt Ferro. Tewksbury was on a roll now, getting two more goals, one by George DeGregorio from Boucher and Henderson, and the other by Brian Andriolo from Marc McConnell and Matt Ferro. The period ended with Tewksbury holding a commanding 4-1 lead.

Midway through the third period McConnell scored his first goal of the game assisted by Andriolo and Ferro. Framingham answered with one more goal, but it wasn't enough. Killian in net turned in another fine job preserving the 5-2 win.

Tewksbury 7 Revere 1

Game three was played Saturday night at the Tully Forum. Tewksbury knew if they beat Revere in this game, they would advance to the semifinals. The game began with a goal by Matt Ferro from Robert Bussey and Marc McConnell. Ten seconds later Revere scored before Tewksbury answered quickly with Andriolo scoring from Bussey and Nazarro.

After a fast paced scoring duel, the period settled down into a goaltenders' showcase, with Killian turning back several tough shots.

Tewksbury notched three goals late in the second period, the first by Henderson from Hyde and Lodi, then a goal by Ferro from McConnell and Hughes. The scoring was rounded out by Marc McConnell notching the only goal of the third period assisted by Andriolo. A good defensive game was played by Billy Flynn.

Tewksbury 6 Duxbury 3

Now it was on to the semifinals, with Tewksbury set to meet undefeated Duxbury. The locals took a quick lead, with Henderson scoring one minute and 30 seconds into the game assisted by Nazarro and Bussey. McConnell then popped home an unassisted goal for a 2-0 lead. Duxbury answered with a goal in the closing seconds of the first period. Defenseman Hyde Lodi was a factor in shutting down the Duxbury attack in that opening stanza.

Killian in goal continued to solid hockey, turning away several Duxbury blasts. Six minutes into the period, the scoring barrage began, with Henderson scoring his second goal of the day, with an assist from defenseman Hughes. Duxbury answered with their second goal, followed a minute later by a goal from Andriolo, assisted by Ferro and McConnell for a 4-2 advantage.

Wingers Boucher and DeGregorio were in the corners digging for the puck throughout a close checking final period, as Tewksbury maintained the lead with another goal by Andriolo from Ferro and McConnell. The final goal in the 6-3 victory was scored by Bussey from Andriolo and Flynn.

Tewksbury 8 Billerica 1

Defending champion Billerica stood smack in Tewksbury's path to the championship. Tewksbury had defeated Billerica on several occasions, but never in a game of such importance.

The two teams felt each other out early in the first period before Tewksbury's Marc McConnell scored assisted by Brian Andriolo. Two minutes later, a goal was scored by Andriolo assisted by Matt Ferro. Defensemen Billy Flynn and Jason Hughes were doing their best to keep the play out of the Tewksbury end, resulting in another score by Tewksbury, Robert Bussey from McConnell for a 3-0 lead after one period.

Five minutes into the final period Tewksbury got a break with a goal scored by Eddie Henderson unassisted.

Billerica then began to mount an offense, with a goal scored by Mark Siraco assisted by Chris Gelormini. Tewksbury was not about to give ground however, getting a goal from McConnell with Ferro assisting for a 5-1 gap after two periods.

Ricky Killian stood his ground with plenty of help from defensemen Jason Hyde and Anthony Lodi throughout the final period. Tewksbury scored early, with a goal from George DeGregorio assisted by Mark Boucher and Eddie Henderson. A DeGregorio score from Kevin Nazarro and Robert Bussey gave Tewksbury even more breathing room. Halfway through the final period Mark Boucher scored his first goal of the day, assisted by DeGregorio.

The score read 8-1 Tewksbury with five minutes, 30 seconds left to play. Neither team would score again, as the Tewksbury Squirt II team rolled to the Division II State Championship.

WHY WORRY ABOUT TAKING OUT A LOAN WHEN YOU COULD BE SITTING ON A GOLD MINE?

Most people get frustrated and depressed when they can't get the loan they want.

But that's unnecessary. Because many times the money they need is sitting right under their noses. Or, to be more accurate, under their roofs.

Berry hockey squad garners silver medal

The John T. Berry Special Olympic floor hockey team has successfully competed in the Massachusetts Winter Olympics, taking home a silver medal for their efforts.

Berry, located in North Reading, serves the needs of over 90 mentally retarded adults from northeastern Massachusetts. The competition took place in February at the Eastover Ski Resort, located in Lenox. Teams as well as individuals from around the state competed for medals.

The Berry team jumped off to a quick start, posting the only shutout in the hockey competition by defeating Lawrence, 3-0. Game number two matched Berry, a Division 2 team, against first division Project Triangle. This mismatch of divisions cost Berry a victory, losing to the Project Triangle Stompers, 8-3.

The third match pitted Berry against a team from Belchertown, with the winner of this match going to the final round to play for the gold medal. Berry scored 10 goals to Belchertown's five, advancing Berry to the final round.

The final match for the gold medal saw a team from Mercy Center of Worcester compete against the Berry team. Mercy Center went on to win the gold, defeating Berry, 11-5. The Berry Special Olympians were proud of their effort and silver medals.

Berry Recreation therapist and Special Olympic coach Denise Dorval said: "It's great for Berry residents to learn competitive sports while benefitting from motor exercise. They are learning that winning is important, but not as important as the team effort made while working toward a goal." Currently the Berry group is practicing for the spring Olympic basketball competition.

Special Olympic volunteers

Sports minded community volunteers are needed to assist John T. Berry residents in training for Special Olympic events. The John T. Berry Rehabilitation Center, located in North Reading, is the state residential facility serving the needs of over 90 mentally retarded individuals from northeastern Massachusetts. Currently, Berry residents are competing in floor hockey competition against other teams from around the state.

Denise Dorval, recreation therapist and Berry Special Olympic coach, is seeking community volunteers to help residents train for future athletic events. Volunteer training assistants will be asked to donate time on Tuesday evenings from 7 to 9. The Special Olympics is an exciting event for all who participate.

Individuals who feel they can help may call 727-9550, extension 557 or 536 Monday through Saturday.

Tewksbury police news

ARRESTS: John J. Hart, Jr., 21, of 968 Main St., Tewksbury was arrested by Officer John Powers on March 26 at 8:35 p.m. and charged with driving while intoxicated, leaving the scene of an accident after causing property damage, operating an unregistered and uninsured vehicle and operating without a license or possession. The arrest was made after police investigated an accident near the Wang Distribution Center (the old Pierce Ford) on Main Street.

Three Tewksbury youths were arrested by Sgt. Paul Johnson on March 21 in connection with a break into some of the town's water well pumping houses in the Poplar Street area. Johnson alleges the trio entered the pumping houses and stole air compressors.

Brett D. Cobb, 17, of 247 Salem Rd., Tewksbury was charged with three counts of breaking and entering in the night time, larceny and damage to the town's water supply. Wayne M. Kelley, 19, of 47 Janet Ave., Tewksbury was charged with two counts of breaking and entering in the night time, larceny and damage to the town's water supply while David G. Sheehan, Jr., 20, of 16 Grove St., Tewksbury was charged with a single count of breaking and entering in the night time, larceny and damage to the town's water supply.

According to reports, the theft of the compressors were reported to police at 9:39 a.m. on March 20 by workers from the pumping houses and stole air compressors.

THEFTS: Among the items reported stolen last week were: a wallet containing no cash from a locker being used by a New Hampshire man at the Northmeadow Tennis and Racquet Club on March 26; a radio and tape player valued at $400 and a citizens band radio, tape player, speakers and floor jack with a total value of about $480 from two separate vehicles while they were parked in front of a Meredith Road residence on March 26; and a bicycle valued at $145 from the yard of a South Street residence on March 25.

Also among the items reported stolen last week were: some $1200 worth of building materials from the site of two homes under construction on Beech Street on March 25; a cap from a Chevy El Camino while parked in front of an Astle Street residence on March 25; and a stereo equalizer from one of two cars broken into while parked in the Northmeadow Tennis and Racquet Club parking lot on March 20.

BREAKS: Police investigated a reported break into a Kendall Road residence at 2:00 a.m. on March 27. The break was reported after the resident came home to find some items, including a phone answering machine, had been stolen.

STOLEN VEHICLES: Police are investigating the armed theft of a vehicle from a Lowell man. According to reports, two males and a female commandeered the man's 1981 Chevy Monte Carlo at gun point while he was leaving the Tewksbury Inn shortly before midnight on March 24. Also according to reports, the man was driven around for a few hours before being dumped out of the vehicle, apparently unharmed, around 2:30 or 3:00 a.m.

The victim reported the incident to police at 3:29 a.m. on March 25. In addition, the victim told police that the trio stole his wallet before dumping him out of the car.

Police recovered a 1977 Oldsmobile Cutlass on South Street at 8:53 a.m. on March 25. According to reports, the vehicle, owned by a Billerica resident who reported it stolen at the time of recovery, was totally burned.

Billerica police recovered a 1981 Ford Escort in their town at 6:35 p.m. on March 24. According to reports, the vehicle, owned by a Winthrop resident who reported it stolen from the Holiday Inn parking lot at 11:03 p.m. on March 17, was described as a total wreck when recovered.

Police received reports that a 1982 Chevy pick up truck was stolen from the Jade East Restaurant parking lot at 12:55 a.m. on March 21.

Police recovered a Yamaha 250 Enticer snowmobile on Vale Street at 8:30 p.m. on March 20.

MISCELLANEOUS: Police are currently investigating a March 24 reported attempted assault on two reserve officers. According to reports, the two officers, who were working traffic details, reported that the driver of a black Chevy Blazer attempted to run them over as he travelled in a southerly direction on Main Street.

The officers, Christopher Mehrmann and Herbert Hadley, reported the incident at 3 p.m. Mehrmann was stationed at the Heartland Food Warehouse and Hadley was stationed near DeMoulas Market Basket at the time of the incident. A check of records show the vehicle was registered to a Burlington man.

A tractor truck driver, who is used to always seeing a long trailer unit following him when he looks in the rear view mirror, suddenly found it wasn't there when he looked at 12 p.m. on March 26. Apparently the trailer had disengaged from the tractor while the truck was rolling down Andover Street. Police reports say there were no injuries in the incident and that they believe the trailer disengaged after hitting a large pot hole on Andover Street.

Police received an unusually large amount of reports concerning damaged mailboxes last week. Residents on Bridge Street reported that about a dozen mail boxes on the street were knocked over at 12:25 a.m. on March 25 while residents on Shawsheen Street reported a large number of overturned mail boxes with their contents spread over the ground at 6:55 a.m. on March 24.

The lost contents in the Shawsheen Street incident were collected by police who turned the mail over to postal authorities for redelivery.

Construction crews working on the Tewksbury Townhouse Condominium project on Main Street reported finding several pieces of equipment damaged when they reported for work around 7:40 a.m. on March 25.

Fire officials had to hose down the VIP gas station pump island after a pump there lost about 25 gallons of gasoline at 7:40 p.m. on March 22. According to police reports, a malfunctioning gas pump nozzle was to blame for the mishap.

Tewksbury board approves Heath Brook sewer extension route

Tewksbury selectmen, acting as the board of public works, approved Thursday plans for construction of a privately funded sewer along Heath Brook, instead of along Main Street. The change in program will save the town about $600,000, according to DPW Supt. Phil Pattison.

The work will be done by private contractors, who will be supervised by engineers from Camp Dresser McKee, the town's water and sewer consultants.

Owners of land along Main Street, and owners of land where condominiums are to be built are contributing funds for the project.

Under private contractors it is expected the cost will be about $400,000. So far land owners have pledged a sum of $240,000, leaving about $160,000 yet to be pledged.

On motion of Selectman Bill Hallisey the board voted that there would be no betterment charges against land owners who had made significant

Tewksbury water main construction to resume

The work to complete the installation of the new 16 inch ductile iron water main on North Street, Tewksbury will probably start Monday, April 2. As a consequence, motorists can expect that traffic will be slowed down for a couple of weeks.

Contractors had been hoping to start earlier, but the predictions of a storm for this Thursday or Friday will probably prevent that.

The water main will connect to a 16 inch main on Andover Street that was placed in the ground last year. The main runs from the Lowell line up Andover Street to North Street and down North Street to Catamount Road where it joins an existing 16 inch main feeding into underground reserve tanks.

The line will bring about 800,000 to 1.3 million gallons of Lowell water a day into the Tewksbury system and is being built with financial assistance from the state, Wang and Metropolitan Life Insurance Company. Both firms have buildings on North Street that will be serviced by the line.

Construction was to have been completed last year, but the contractor ran into a section of ledge on North Street. Hitting that ledge slowed the project down and work was stopped for winter months.

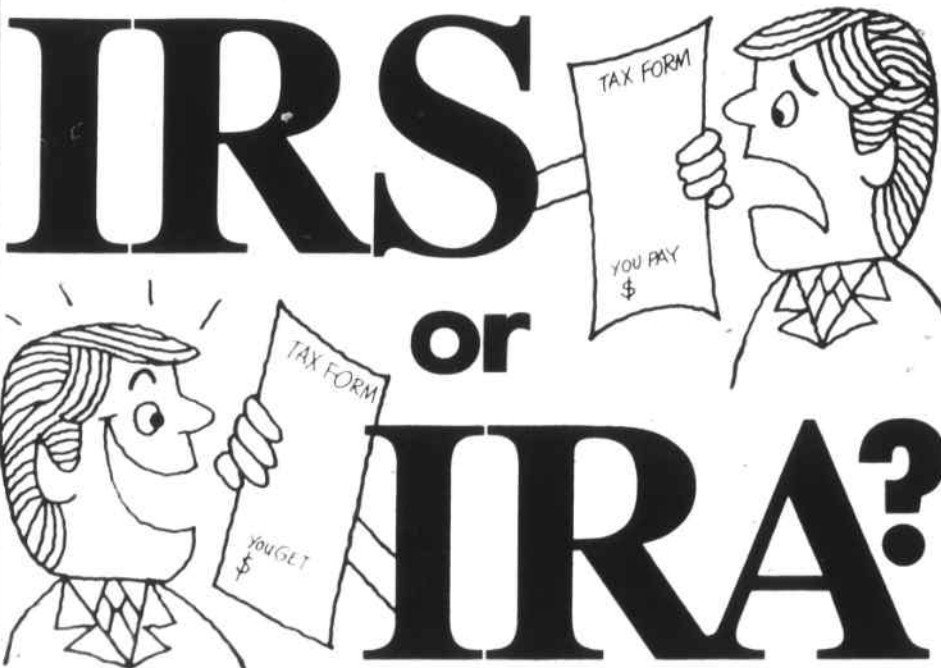

Victor Drive to the airport.

There will be no pumping station needed. Extensions of the sewer can be made to Wildwood Road, Pinewood Road, Tanglewood Road, Hinkley Road, Colonial Drive, Beale Drive, Virginia Road, Davis Road and Rocky Road.

It is believed that the developers of the Carter Green condominiums on Victor Drive will be the last ones approached for a donation. The developers are proposing some 468 units on either side of Victor Drive and have reportedly been investigating another sewer route that would run from the rear of their site past the junior high school through the Livingston Street playground picking up the elderly housing complexes before hooking into the main trunk line along the rear of the Tew-mac airport.

It is not known what affect the board's approval of the Heath Brook sewer proposal will have on the Victor Drive condominium project's sewerage plans.

The Eames Neck debate

Writing a history of a town from old musty records is not easy. In Wilmington earlier writers found this out. One consequence is a story that the Rev. James Varney, the first pastor, had left his pulpit because of illness. Those writers did not have the patience to read through page after page of illegible or nearly illegible handwriting. Mr. Varney, the records seem to say, stopped preaching because he was not paid.

The Town Meeting of June 12, 1744, during King George's War as it was known in New England, voted to pay the Rev. Mr. Varney and settle the long standing claim. Cadwallader Ford was the moderator. He was also on the committee which was, at that time, considering the claims of Mr. Varney, the other two members being John Beard and Ebenezer Jones.

The town meeting voted 240 pounds, Old Tenor, to be levied upon the inhabitants of the town, and to be paid "forthwith." This was in addition to 100 pounds which had been voted to be paid Mr. Varney one month earlier, in May.

It seems to have been the result of a court judgement. It may have been by agreement.

The previous committee, appointed a year earlier, consisted of Cadwallader Ford, Joshua Thompson and Jonathan Jones. The records are hand written by Deacon Jearns Thompson, elder brother of Joshua. Joshua had married Rachel Harnden, and was a brother-in-law of Deacon John, he who was one of the first deacons of the Wilmington church.

Joshua, at one point in the records, seems to have owned a mill, and it appears that the mill was located near the Tewksbury line, at the northern end. If such is the case the mill was probably horse powered. There are no substantial streams in that part of Wilmington.

It is more probable that he owned the mill at Lubbers Brook, near Glen Road. That was a "Thompson" mill. The Colonial General Court, in 1722 gave permission to connect "Sandy Pond" to Lubbers Brook for the purpose of supplying more water power for that mill.

That ditch still exists, flowing under Main Street, and the milldam is to be seen, looking upstream from Glen Road.

Daniel Eames was another brother-in-law of Deacon John Harnden. He was the second husband of Abigail, the girl who, though wounded, survived the Harnden Massacre. They lived in the big farmhouse at "Buck's Corner" the corner of Woburn and Wildwood streets.

It was during the period of King George's War that Daniel Eames became a captain in the Wilmington Militia. There are no known records of that militia, but the question can be raised: Which members served at the siege of Fort Louisbourg? Did Capt. Daniel serve there?

Someone from every town in Massachusetts and Maine served in that siege, up on Cape Breton Island. There were 5,000 men from Massachusetts and Maine, which was at that time a part of Massachusetts. All were drafted from the various militias of the towns.

Louisbourg was a tremendous fortress, which is currently being rebuilt to attract tourists. It fell to the Yankees on June 16, 1745. The capture was a fact of tremendous pride to the men of Massachusetts, and to the commanding officer, William Pepperell.

Thirty years later some of those men were marching to a place called Bunker Hill. Events were to prove they had learned their lesson well.

After King George's War the town meetings of Wilmington had another subject to discuss, for several years. That was the problem of the Eames Neck.

Daniel's father Samuel had lived, back in the 1680s near the Ipswich River, where the Andover Road crossed, now called Jenks Bridge. The home was on the south bank, and that was where Daniel was brought up. Now, 100 years after the first bridge had been built over that river, he was claiming the land as his.

On December 1, 1749 Town Clerk Jearns Thompson issued a warrant for a special meeting to consider the problem. That warrant is copied in the town clerk's notes, to be found in the town hall.

Issued in the name of His Majesty (George II) it is the oldest extant copy of a warrant for a town meeting in Wilmington.

The special town meeting was held on December 8. Daniel Eames lost his case, and recorded himself as being opposed to the vote. So did 11 other voters, whose names were not recorded.

According to the Eames genealogy Daniel and Abigail had moved the year before to Haverhill. That meant going, as so many others had done, north on the Andover Road.

The belief is that they never came back. Yet Daniel seems to have been at that town meeting on December 8, 1749.

The skating rink will close April 30th

For the past 10 years it had been a money losing business. Last Tuesday the directors of the Youth Ice Arena in North Wilmington voted to shut down at the close of business on April 30.

The PGA Realty Trust (Lloyd Crocker), of Arlington and Wilmington first constructed a rink in 1971, in North Wilmington. The rink was 185 feet by 80 feet wide, in a building of 26 thousand square feet. In 1972 a second rink was constructed of about the same size.

At a rental rate of $40 an hour the rinks were money makers. Lloyd Crocker wanted to provide skating at rates the people could afford, and he was succeeding.

When the rink started there were only 18 rinks within 30 miles of Wilmington. A couple of years ago so many rinks had been built that the number was 54. It is, today, less than that.

Competition forced the Ice Arena to shut down its operations.

At the height of their business the PGA Trust was having only six hours, out of every nine days, when the rinks were not occupied. This was with both rinks in operation.

Parents of children were taking turns to drive their youngsters to the rinks, sometimes at such an hour as 4 a.m. Those were busy days!

Today, with competition and the effects of inflation, the rinks shut down at 10 p.m. The rental fees have been increased to $90 an hour, but that isn't enough.

All the bills have increased. Electricity, today, costs $9 to $10 thousand a month.

The directors have emphasized that they would like to keep the hockey rinks going. It is strictly a case of having to face up to the economics of the situation. For the past 10 years there has not been enough money.

They appreciate the friendships, and the concern of others, but they cannot continue.

We can not win our own homes and businesses by spending more money than we have. Why should our government? We see our Congressmen tripping around the world throwing money at everyone else's problems. They should stay home and work at de-regulating natural gas so we can heat our homes at a reasonable price.

Mickey Sullivan

Condos are social assets

Mickey Sullivan

Some of the condominiums being constructed in Tewksbury are money makers and social assets for the town. Such was the message of Mickey Sullivan, speaking to the Tewksbury Lions Club during a dinner meeting in the Holiday Inn on March 14.

Mickey and his brother Ted are the developers of the 300 unit Indian Ridge complex off Shawsheen St., Tewksbury. The development now has 60 condos.

The zoning laws of Tewksbury allow six condos per acre in a multiple family district, or one single family home per acre. At the current tax rate the 300 condos allowed on the 50 acre Indian Ridge site will yield about $402,000 in taxes to the town while 50 single family homes on one acre lots would yield about $90,500, Sullivan said. The price tag for the condos ranges from $66,000 to $82,000 thousand per unit. The price range for the homes ranges from $94,000 to $110,000.

In the 60 units presently sold and occupied on Apache Way, the roadway leading through the complex, there are a total of six children, three of whom are of school age. Projecting those figures out, the 300 condos, he said, could see a total of 30 children up to 18 years old, of whom 21 will be of school age.

In 50 homes there would be 84 school age children.

Tewksbury zoning bylaws do not allow the construction of more than two bedrooms in any condominium unit, effectively allowing only small families to move in.

The typical family, in the 60 units now occupied, is either a retired couple or a newly married couple, Sullivan said. The retired couple does not want to have problems. They have finished bringing up their families.

The newly married couples, who have yet to start their families, are people who both work. Some of them, Sullivan said, rarely visit other parts of Tewksbury. The annual meeting of the Indian Ridge Association, owners of the condos, was held recently in the Tewksbury Inn, and many of the members had to be given driving directions. They didn't know where it was.

At Indian Ridge, he said, there are recreational facilities for the residents. It has its own water supply for watering the lawn and for washing cars.

There is an eight inch town water main going into the development. There are some rather expensive fixtures. And using private wells for lawn watering and car washing, he said, reduces the amount of town provided water being used.

There are no street maintenance costs to the town - no plowing, no patching. There are no expenses for street lighting. The town does not pay for rubbish collection. There are no expenses for the town in sewerage interception. The entire system is being paid for by Indian Ridge, and there is a private security arrangement.

The people who live there pay the same assessments as do the rest of the town's people.

"I like to think my life in Tewksbury has been somewhat of a contribution. I like to think these condominiums of ours are a boon to the town," Sullivan said.

"I can speak definitely about Indian Ridge. I cannot speak for the other (condominium developments), but in two or three years, there will be upward of 1250 units in Tewksbury," he added.

"The bottom line is that condos are a great bargain for the town. Condos, such as those in our development, will help to keep the substance of our society - to keep the older couples in Tewksbury," Sullivan said.

Swasey sat down to a tremendous applause.

Rocco DePasquale warned that what Swasey was proposing was a "restraint of trade."

Rocco discussed three possibilities.

The first, which he immediately discounted was a rink for the high school.

The second was the possibility of constructing a tax exempt rink. There would probably have to be some local assistance. He said there could be an income of $500 thousand a year.

Rocco's third possibility was a purchase of the rink by a developer in which he could get tax credits. There could be

Take care with drugs

Medical researchers have determined that the average elderly person takes between eight and 10 different drugs per day. As a result drug misuse is rampant among them. Many are suffering adverse drug reactions. Misuse can occur in many ways - overuse, when a patient takes more drugs than are necessary, or when they feel like it, not when the label tells them to. Another abuse is physician abuse, when the physician prescribes the wrong medicine and produces unwanted side effects on the patient. One drug can counter effect another. Alcohol combined with painkillers is the cause of a large number of abuse cases. Be careful with medication and do not be afraid to ask the physician about medication being prescribed. Many physicians do not understand an older person's body. As a result administering one drug after another is a dangerous procedure. Get a second opinion before taking a number of drugs.

*Taxpayers have reduced the deductible amount in these categories. See the average deductions for their own income tax returns.

How do your deductions compare with national averages? If they vary widely, check your records.

If the thought of an IRS audit strikes terror in your heart, now is the time to address those fears, says the Massachusetts Society of CPAs.

By taking a few precautionary measures now, you can reduce the chances of being audited. And, by acting now, while the particulars of your 1983 return are still fresh in your mind, you can devise a stronger defense in case you are chosen for an audit. Without doubt, a little understanding of how the IRS audit system works can save you time and lessen any anxieties if your return is called into question.

In 1982, more than 1.4 million tax returns were audited and the IRS found an additional $3 billion in tax liabilities from individual taxpayers. Ironically, IRS audits also uncovered one-half billion dollars in overpayments to the IRS in 1982, resulting in refunds on 114,602 returns.

The principal method used by the IRS to pick who will be audited begins once all returns are run through a computer. The computer sorts out returns that have unusually high deductions or other discrepancies that seem out of line with their income levels. The computer scores returns, and those with the highest scores are picked for audits.

A return showing a $20,000 income and $10,000 in medical expenses may be flagged by the computer. To prevent being audited, you may want to attach a copy of your medical bills to your return in such a case. That may convince an IRS examiner that the high deduction is justified and it wouldn't pay to look any further.

Among the chief signs the IRS looks at in deciding who will be audited are: excessive losses from tax shelters, very high medical deductions, unusual business and travel expenses, high casualty or theft loss deductions, excessive sales tax deductions and steep alimony payments. Top IRS officials urge taxpayers to take all deductions to which they are legally entitled. Don't be intimidated and allow fear of being audited stop you from taking a deduction as long as you can prove you are entitled to what you are claiming, CPAs advise.

Another way of having your return audited is under the Tax Compliance Measurement Program (TCMP), which is done entirely at random. A TCMP is a rigorous, often multi-day, affair — a taxpayer's nightmare. This line by line examination of your return requires substantiation of every item and every number on your return.

Other ways the IRS selects returns for audits include matching different information forms, such as your W-2 and 1099 forms with your return, and following up on tips from informants. But no matter how you are selected for an audit, you should know what steps you need to take.

If you receive a letter saying you owe additional taxes, examine your return to make sure the IRS has not made any errors in their computation. If you don't have a copy of your return, the IRS will provide you with one for $5. If after examining your return you find that the IRS is not correct, simply send them a letter explaining your position. Then wait to be notified of the next step.

If you receive a letter directing you to come to an IRS office for an audit, be sure the audit date allows you time to prepare your case. If you need more time, ask for a delay. When your date comes up, be prepared to answer questions. Have receipts ready for inspection. These may include paid bills, cancelled checks and paycheck stubs. If you no longer have a receipt, say for a home improvement, get a letter from the contractor who did the work. You may be able to negotiate with an IRS examiner. If you are dissatisfied with a decision made by an examiner, you can ask to see a supervisor. You may be able to settle the issue with the supervisor.

If you are not satisfied with an IRS decision after an audit, you can appeal your case to the IRS appellate level. If you are still unable to work out a compromise, you can take the case to court.

Pro sports trickle-down

FM TALK: This columnist opened his eyes this week, and lo-and-behold! the following observations were made:

You may recall last week's column on the courting of Marcus Dupree, the highly touted 20-year-old Mississippi running back who became another instant sports millionaire when he signed recently with the New Orleans Breakers of the USFL. Well, that far-fetched scenario between Dupree and his agent, Ken Fairley, may not have been so far-fetched after all. The trickle-down effect in pro sports means that you and I — the sports fans who love to take in live sporting events — end up having to pay for all those wild demands that are made by potential superstar athletes.

This week the National Football League and both professional baseball leagues announced that ticket prices will go up this year. Mostly to pay for all those wild demands by athletes we keep hearing about. The increases will range from $1 to $5. The Pittsburgh Pirates will institute the biggest hike in baseball: field, loge and box seats by $1.50. The Red Sox will raise their ticket prices by $.50. The only team in baseball to actually rollback prices is the Texas Rangers, who lowered their prices by $.50. The most expensive ticket in baseball? The Montreal Expos, where a top ticket goes for $10.50. The Expos also have the cheapest seat in baseball: one dollar. The cheapest seat in the U.S. can be found at Yankee Stadium, where you can see a game for $1.50.

As for the NFL, the L.A. Raiders wasted no time capitalizing on their Super Bowl win this year. They raised ticket prices by $4.00, making top seats $22.00 a piece. The highest jump will be in Washington. The Redskins haven't raised their ticket prices in a long time, but will make up for it this year by boosting prices from $20.00 to $25.00 a ticket, which will be the most expensive seat to be found in all of pro football. Well, legitimately. The cheapest seat in pro football? That can be located in sunny Tampa, where the Buccaneers can be seen for just $5.00. Incidentally, the New England Patriots will increase their ticket prices this year by $3.50.

High ticket prices to see professional sports teams may be one of the reasons for the sudden decline in interest in video arcades. It wasn't too long ago that

Stable employment is expected in this area

Employers in the Burlington-Woburn area predict stable employment prospects for the next three months, according to the quarterly Employment Outlook Survey conducted by Manpower, Inc., the world's largest temporary service firm.

Jim Himes, manager of Manpower's Boston area operations, said, "Overall, 13 percent of area employers polled plan to hire additional workers during the second quarter of 1984 (April, May, June), 7 percent expect staff reductions, and 80 percent plan no change to staff levels."

In a comparable survey conducted one year ago at this time, employers reported essentially identical intentions. Last quarter, 16 percent of area employers planned staff additions while 3 percent expected reductions.

Although the current national outlook reflects a continuation of the strong post-recession hiring trend begun in the second half of 1983, the survey results from Burlington-Woburn fall well below those for the entire country. Nationally, 30 percent of all employers surveyed indicate hiring intentions, while only 5 percent expect to reduce their workforce.

Limited local job opportunities are predicted by durable goods manufacturers, wholesale and retail merchants, and employers in transportation and public utilities. Some staff reductions are expected by employers in finance, insurance and real estate. The outlook is stable in other sectors.

EMPLOYERS NATIONWIDE PREDICT SECOND QUARTER HIRING SURGE

The national employment outlook for the second quarter is the most optimistic recorded by the quarterly survey in five years.

Of the more than 11,400 U.S. firms polled in the study, 30 percent say they intend to increase their present workforce during the quarter ahead. An equally significant finding of the poll is that only 5 percent of U.S. employers plan to decrease hiring in the quarter ahead, the lowest workforce decrease factor ever recorded by the survey.

"The hiring outlook is as bright and strong as we've seen it at any time since 1978," said Manpower President Mitchell S. Fromstein. "The jobs are developing rapidly, across the board and across the nation."

Fromstein said he expected labor shortages to develop by early summer, particularly in the white collar clerical skills. He attributes the expected hiring activity to the severity of the last recession's cutbacks, to the growing addition of office automation equipment, and to rapidly expanding production. "Together, these elements are impacting heavily on staffing requirements," he concluded.

The most notable increases are projected by both durable and non-durable goods manufacturers and by those businesses related to building and construction. In the three categories combined, approximately 40 percent of employers nationally say they will increase their workforce while less than 5 percent will trim staff, a favorable ratio of 8:1.

Hiring projections are sharply above last quarter and the second quarter of last year in virtually all sectors of the economy and in all geographic areas, with Southern states showing slightly higher figures than the national average and the Northeast indicating slightly lower levels.

MIDWEST REBOUND PACES UPSWING

As part of a strong nationwide outlook, the Midwest region rebounded back to levels that matched those of the most optimistic areas. The Midwest, which was hardest hit by the recession, now shows 31 percent of employers intending to rebuild recession-depleted workforces. Not since 1979 has the Midwest outlook been so bright. A year ago, only 23 percent of Midwest respondents were planning staff increases and just one quarter ago, only 19 percent forecast additions. Among employers in Southern states, 32 percent are looking forward to increases, but this area did not suffer the recessionary declines that prevailed in the Midwest.

The percentage of employers planning cutbacks is the same in all regions of the country — an exceptionally low 5 percent. Employment opportunities in the West are similar to those in the Midwest, except in the construction sector, where Midwestern employers are particularly bullish. Although the employment outlook in the Northeast is less optimistic than in other regions of the country, job seekers there, too, will see an improve job climate — the best reported for the region in five years.

DRAMATIC RISE IN CONSTRUCTION HIRING EXPECTED

One of the sectors severely affected by the recession, the construction industry, predicts a are eligible for admission to the ninth grade. Students who wish to enter grade 10 may also apply. As a Catholic educational institution Austin teaches and follows Christian principles, but admits as students boys of all faiths.

The school was founded in 1961 by the Order of St. Augustine, which had been requested by Richard Cardinal Cushing to provide high quality Catholic secondary education for the North Shore area. The Augustinian Fathers also conduct Merrimack College and Villanova University.

Austin Prep offers its students a college preparatory curriculum. Each year about 95 percent of its senior class enters college immediately upon graduation. The school's phase system, based on the idea that the curriculum should fit the needs and abilities of the individual student, allows Austin to offer courses on different ability levels, and to provide a wide variety of electives to complement required courses. Upperclassmen may take college-level Advanced Placement courses in American History, European History, Calculus, Chemistry, English, and several foreign languages. Entering freshmen have a choice of five languages: Russian, Latin, Italian, French, and Spanish. Among the special features of the curriculum are courses in computer programming and oceanography.

A wide variety of extra-curricular activities supplements Austin's academic program by providing social and cultural enrichment. There are active organizations for drama, chess, weightlifting, journalism, foreign languages, and student government. The school's Foreign Language Department sponsors field trips to Quebec, Paris, Italy, Spain and Russia.

The school sponsors interscholastic athletic teams in almost every major sport. Austin is represented in league play by teams in football, soccer, baseball, hockey, ski racing, basketball, track, cross country, golf, and tennis. These sports are offered on the junior varsity and varsity level, and there are freshman teams in many sports. There are also intramural programs in softball, basketball, and lacrosse.

Bus transportation to Austin Prep is available from Greater Lowell, Greater Lawrence, and many other communities north of Boston.

"It's too cold outside", "I don't like to drive in the Winter" or "It's too much trouble getting the kids all bundled up."

No more excuses now! Rumor has it, de-pite the minor set back last week, that Spring is here, and the folks at the North Suburban YMCA are gearing up for their most popular swim session.

It's just about this time of year that swimmers of all ages emerge from the woodwork dead set on getting back into swim shape for the Summer.

Whole armies of preschoolers will walk or toddle onto the deck, catapult into the water to learn or perfect their swimming skills.

Legions of school age kids will march through the doors after school to master the intricacies of Rotary Breathing and the Butterfly.

Adults too, will be back in strength on Wednesday and Thursday evenings to be initiated into the mysterious rites of swimming.

Then there are the waterbabies, Scuba lessons, Lifesaving, Aquacise and Springboard Diving Lessons not to mention lap swimmers and Recreational swims.

Whew!

Why the Y for swim lessons?

The YMCA is the oldest national organization to teach swimming in this country, dating back to 1910, and they have been in the forefront of Aquatic Instruction ever since.

The North Suburban YMCA has a reputation in the area for offering the finest in Swim Instruction by highly qualified instructors. They know how important a child's first experience is with the water. They understand about fear and how to overcome it. They know how to motivate a child so that he or she may develop their skills to the highest possible degree.

Above all, the Y staff is most aware of safety and as you watch your child at his lesson or playing during a recreation swim, you will be assured by the constant, professional supervision.

All your favorite teachers will be on hand this Spring to give you their best. Registration is going on right now at the Y. Classes will begin the week of March 26th.

Although summer is still several months away, the time to learn or improve your swimming skills is now.

Make the most of this and all your future Summers by investing in swim lessons today at the North Suburban YMCA.

The Waltham tomato

Growers of staked or trellised tomatoes who have depended on the Jet Star variety may want to give a new tomato, the Waltham 8117, a try.

Developed by the Massachusetts Agricultural Experiment Station, the Waltham 8117 has a better eating quality and produced higher yields than Jet Star during three years of commercial field trials in Massachusetts and other New England states. In addition, Waltham 8117's fruit is firmer, less susceptible to cracking, and resistant to Fusarium race I and II and Verticillium wilt. It is not as prone to blossom-end rot, even under non-irrigated conditions.

The Waltham 8117 matures not more than a week later than Jet Star and the individual fruit size is about six-tenths of a pound when grown under ideal conditions. With a solidly textured interior, the eating quality of Waltham 8117 has been rated as excellent.

EMPLOYMENT

much larger increase in hiring activity than is usually expected for seasonal reasons during the second quarter of the year. Nationally, 45 percent of construction employers polled plan to hire additional workers in the next three months, compared to 34 percent one year ago. More significantly, only 4 percent expect to reduce their workforces, the lowest percentage in the survey's eight-year history.

While construction hiring is expected to be strong across the country, nowhere will it be stronger than in the Midwest.

There, over half of the employers polled (52 percent) plan to staff up, and the net gain of firms planning increases (48 percent) is more than double the year ago level. Nationally, eleven times as many construction employers plan staff increases as plan staff reductions.

MANUFACTURERS ALSO REPORT BULLISH HIRING PLANS

Job seekers will also find encouraging news in the hiring intentions reported by manufacturers of durable goods and non-durable goods. In the durable goods sector, 37 percent of employers polled — the highest level in five years — plan staff increases during the second quarter. Fifty-four percent plan no change; 5 percent plan cutbacks; and 4 percent are unsure of their hiring plans.

Similarly, 30 percent of non-durable goods manufacturers plan increases and only 5 percent decreases — the best ratio in the survey's history. In both sectors the outlook represents a continuation of a year-long staffing build-up.

Regionally, the most dramatic improvement for manufacturers is reported in the South, where hiring expectations are double those of a year ago. In the Midwest, which was most severely affected by the recession, manufacturing jobs also appear to be rebounding strongly. Among Midwestern durable goods manufacturers, 37 percent plan staff increases, against 24 percent a year ago, and only 5 percent — versus 9 percent a year ago — plan decreases. This is the most positive outlook in five years.

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL HIRING OUTLOOK BRIGHTER THAN EXPECTED

In the wholesale and retail trade sector, seasonal staff increases during the April-June period are normal, and 1984 is no exception. The magnitude of the planned build-up, however, is much larger than usual, with merchants predicting the best employment outlook since 1978.

Nationally, 32 percent of the wholesalers and retailers surveyed plan to hire additional workers during the next three months, compared to 23 percent a year ago. Only 4 percent — the lowest number in the survey's history — expect staff cutbacks. Another 62 percent plan no changes, and 2 percent are unsure of their hiring plans.

The highest number of wholesale and retail job prospects is reported by Western employers, with the Midwest and South reporting figures only slightly behind.

CONTINUING STRENGTH PREDICTED BY SERVICE SECTOR EMPLOYERS

Relatively unaffected by seasonality and the recent recession, the service sector continues to show broad-based and healthy employment prospects. Nationally, 29 percent of service employers plan staff increases in April, May, and June, compared to 23 percent a year ago; 6 percent expect reductions, the same as a year ago. Another 63 percent plan no changes and 2 percent are unsure of their hiring intentions.

ROVING

those Pac Man and Space Invaders games were swallowing up the nation's quarters faster than the U.S. Mint could produce them. But in the past year nearly one third of the country's ten thousand arcades have shut down. I hope you're not stuck with stock in video arcade games. Sales have plunged from 480,000 two years ago to 170,000 last year. This year the drop in sales is expected to be even more drastic. According to arcade operators, machines that once took in $120 a week are now taking in less than half that amount. In case you're curious, game manufacturers say the slack is being picked up in the area of more traditional games, like pool. So rush out and buy pool table stock. Maybe you'll recoup some of those losses caused by the demise of Pac Man.

If pool tables aren't your cup of investment tea, how about coffee? Strong coffee, to be exact. Maybe even espresso. The New England Journal of Medicine reported this week that drinking strong coffee may provide relief to asthma sufferers who forget to take their medication. Studies done at the University of Manitoba, in Winnipeg, have revealed that caffeine opens narrowed bronchial passages as effectively as theophylline, the medicine taken by asthma sufferers. The journal warned that caffeine should not be taken as an alternative to the prescribed medication. There are seven million asthma sufferers in the U.S., and nearly half are children.

Moving on: A major newspaper poll this week revealed that political endorsements may not be as helpful as some politicians think. The poll indicated, in fact, that some endorsements may actually hurt a candidate. For instance, the poll showed that AFL-CIO and the Moral Majority endorsements turn off more voters than they attract. The most influential endorsements come from teachers and farmers. Some endorsements appear to have an effect only on certain groups. For instance, the NAACP carries a lot of weight with black voters but very little with white voters. The National Organization for Women, the poll noted, has a strong impact on women but considerably little with men. Environmentalists have a tremendous impact on voters in the northeast, while they do little to sway voters elsewhere in the country.

One guy who definitely seems to have the power of persuasion is newspaper king Rupert Murdoch. Since rumors of his purchase of Walt Disney Productions, Disney stock has steadily climbed. Somehow I find it difficult to believe that the Disney studios would be right for Murdoch, who's obviously looking to buy a studio to supply films to his proposed cable network. You may recall his recent failure to take over Warner Cable. Warner ended up buying back Murdoch's stock, but Murdoch made a cool $40 million in the deal.

While on the subject of contests, did you readers hear about that Boy George look-alike contest in Detroit recently? The event took place — off all places — during the halftime show of a professional basketball game! By the way, a 24-year-old physical therapist from Toledo, Ohio won the contest after parading and dancing in front of judges who sat at courtside. Give me a break!

A serious side to the arts: About every ten years Hollywood gets on a James Dean clone kick, and every young actor to appear in a teen-oriented film is compared to the great fifties actor. This must be the year again, because with each movie that's released there seems to be an ad announcing the introduction of the next James Dean. In case you younger readers want to find out what the real McCoy was all about (and for James Dean lovers, there will never be another Dean), take a peek at a new book entitled simply "James Dean," which is a marvelous compilation of photographs taken during the last year or so of the actor's life. The book is published by Pomegranate Artbooks, and sells for $24.

A revival of another sort — albeit a shaky one — is taking place in the world of magazines. Vanity Fair has made a comeback on newsstands, but the magazine has had the dubious distinction of having three editors in its first thirteen issues. Notwithstanding, Vanity Fair is classy and well worth the hefty cover price, especially if you're like me and love to read magazines. Beyond the troubles in the editorial room, the magazine has attracted some of the world's best writers and photographers. The April issue, for example, features a terrific story of famous Hollywood blondes and a short essay by Anthony Burgess.

With that item, I must draw to a close this sparkling weekly rendezvous of ours. I'll finish up with a few words of wisdom from Kahlil Gibran:

"I once heard a learned man say, 'Every evil has its remedy, except folly. Christ healed the blind, the halt, the palsied, and the leprous. But the fool he count not cure.'"

"Study a question from all sides, and you will be sure to discover where error has crept in. 'He who tries to seize an opportunity after it has passed him by is like one who sees it approach but will not go to meet it.' Make it a good week.

Springtime may be difficult for the depressed

Spring, for most people, is a time of brightness and renewal and a welcome relief from the hibernation of winter. It is a time for enjoying new life. But the contrast between the seasons can push a depressed person into a still deeper emotional rut, according to Paul Scoglio, staff psychotherapist for Family Counseling and Guidance Centers, a nonprofit mental health clinic serving eastern Massachusetts.

"A beautiful spring day can be devastating to a person whose inner landscape is barren," explains Scoglio. "When things look better for others, a depressed person can feel more isolated than ever."

According to the Family Counseling expert, there are more suicides in the spring. "These people see things coming alive around them, but inside they feel dead. Already in a rut they begin to feel worse as the emotional terrain around them becomes elevated, that is, the more active and cheerful other people get, the more deeply depressed people sink into their ruts."

For a person who is "locked into a loss such as divorce, death or unemployment," the spring can be a very difficult time, says Scoglio. "There may be a reluctance to go with the flow and need to cry in reaction to intensifying feelings of loss, but it may be hard to cry when the sun is shining. There is also the thought, 'shouldn't feel this way.'"

Scoglio says that many people in loss situations tend to deny the pain. "They stuff away the emotions and put on a facade. And family members have a difficult time finding out what they're feeling."

He urges families and friends to notice behavior patterns and "reach out to people who are withdrawing from social interaction. Just listening and showing concern can help a person to recognize the rut he has slipped into. Then comes the search for a solution."

The psychotherapist explains that verbal expression of an emotion provides an appropriate outlet, and has a therapeutic effect.

"Some people faced with this transition season will need professional counseling," says Scoglio. "They require an objective other, or expert to guide them through their own search."

▼ New three-story Patient Care Wing at the Symmes Hospital Division.

Choate-Symmes
Health Services, Inc., is building for a healthier tomorrow.

Construction is underway for our $17.8 million dollar Building Program that will enable us to upgrade existing facilities—facilities that have helped us to provide the highest quality hospital care for our communities for three-quarters of a century.

Choate-Symmes is not replacing sound hospital buildings. Nor is it adding beds. Neither is cost-effective, and neither is necessary to providing better care.

What we are doing is enlarging certain areas as required by the increased needs of our growing populations: At Choate Hospital, new one-story wings will house enlarged diagnostic/outpatient services and an expanded and improved food service department. At Symmes Hospital, an enlarged Emergency/Walk-In Center will enable us to streamline our care for the 20,000 persons who depend on us each year. Patient care units, including an ultra-modern Maximum Care Unit, will be located in a new three-story wing. Extensive renovations will take place at both hospitals.

To date, many of our friends—our Medical Staff, trustees and corporators, business and industry, employees, auxiliaries and volunteers—recognizing our commitment, have shown theirs in pledges and gifts totalling more than $1 million.

We invite you to join them. As Choate-Symmes begins the final phase of the It's Good for Your Health Campaign, we look to our communities to help us raise the remaining $500,000. Your support will ensure a healthier tomorrow.

For information about appropriate memorials in our new wings, or to make your gift to the Choate-Symmes It's Good for Your Health Campaign, we ask you to contact James Tomney, Director of Development, Choate-Symmes Health Services, Inc., Symmes Hospital Division, Arlington, MA 02174, 646-1500, Ext. 1445.

CRAFTERS DIRECTORY

East Coast Crafters Co-operative is pleased to announce a new service for New England Residents who appreciate the quality handwork of New England Artists and Craftspeople. E.C.C.C. has recognized the need for a listing of Arts & Crafts Shows in New England for the Patrons of the Arts. In response to this need, they have begun publishing a monthly calendar listing the dates, locations and hours of Arts & Crafts Shows in New England.

E.C.C.C. was first organized in 1980 as a central clearing house for Art & Craft Show information. Membership has grown from a meager 12 to over 300 Artists and Craftspeople from all over New England and New York. In addition to sending members applications and advance information on upcoming arts and crafts shows, they also hold seminars, workshops and listings of craft suppliers. In 1983 members received information on over 800 New England Shows.

E.C.C.C. invites all show promoters to advertise, free of charge, both in their newsletters to Craftspeople and in their monthly calendar for the "Patrons of the Arts". Anyone interested in organizing an Art & Craft Show is invited to contact E.C.C.C. for their pamphlet with complete how-to's and hints for successfully running a craft show.

For full details on memberships, advertising, or for information on how to organize a show, send a self addressed stamped envelope to: East Coast Crafters Co-operative, 41A Lake Street, Wilmington, Mass. 01887.

EQUINE EXPO

If you like horses, think you might want to own a horse someday, or just want to know more about this fascinating animal, then Massachusetts Equine Expo — '84 is the place to be on April 14 and 15.

The second annual Expo will be held in the indoor arena at Northampton's Tri-County Fairgrounds, located at the intersection of Route 91 and 9.

Jointly sponsored by the Mass. Horsemen's Council, the Mass. Department of Food & Agriculture, and the Mass. 4-H, the Expo is designed to showcase the Massachusetts light horse industry and to introduce that industry to the general public.

Admission is free, and visitors will be entertained by beautiful show, pleasure and working horses. Demonstrations by Massachusetts and New England recognized breed organizations will continue throughout the two days. Expo-goers can see an elegant five-gaited

American Saddlebred; a team of massive Belgian draft horses; versatile Haflingers from the Austrian Tyrol; a high-stepping Morgan park horse; a skillful western Quarter horse; a silver clad Andalusian parade horse. Representative animals from over twenty breeds will display their ability in a variety of equine activities including jumping, polo, dressage and driving. 4-H mounted drill teams, blacksmithing theater. The Colonial Chorus of Reading's premier production of this theatrical wonder runs at the Reading Memorial High School on March 30 and April 6, 7 starting at 8:15 p.m.

Prior of "Show Boat," musical productions tended to be either vapid little comedies with incidental music thrown in (choruses of dancing girls to relax the tired "businessmen") or operettas of the style seen on late-night TV featuring such luminaries as Nelson Eddy and Jeanette MacDonald, which were basically musical vehicles with incidental plots.

SHOWBOAT

Kern and Hammerstein's "Show Boat" astonished theatergoers of the late 20's with its originality of presentation, and single-handedly changed the direction of American musical was for many years after its debut in 1927 the only production of its kind. The show was an instant hit and set new standards for production, composition (both musical and dramatic), scenery, and costumes. Many of these features seem commonplace today and their being absent in other productions of the 20's and 30's explains why "Show Boat" alone has endured from that era.

Check out a true original by calling Phyllis Evensen of Shelby Road in Reading (944-6458) or Barbara Kerrigan of Richard Circle in Woburn (933-7247). Ticket activity is even more brisk than it was for last spring's colossal "Carousel". Make sure one of the remaining seats becomes yours.

Thirteenth Annual Antique Show to be held in Wakefield

Just as Spring comes to Wakefield every year, so does the Antiques Show and Sale at the First Parish Congregational Church — this year scheduled for Friday, March 30, 6:00-10:00 p.m., and Saturday, March 31, 10:00 a.m.-4:00 p.m.

This is the Thirteenth Annual Antiques Show and those who have attended in the past will find that many of their favorite dealers have returned as well as some new and interesting displays, adding both variety and quality to the merchandise offered.

Ms. Jackie Curley and Ms. Diane Irons, Co-Chairpersons for this year's show, confirm that there will be more than 40 dealers participating. The usual diversification of merchandise will be found with choice articles in jewelry, country furniture, old books, oriental rugs, pewter, crystal, miniatures, coin and sterling silver.

The women of the Church will be in charge of the Snack Bar which will provide light refreshments and tasty home-baked goods.

In the spirit of our heritage, and with a renewed appreciation for some of the beautiful and valuable products of early America, the public is invited to attend the Thirteenth Annual Antiques Show and Sale.

The Church is located at the southern end of Lake Quannapowitt, near the center of town. Ample parking is available in the Church parking lot and the admission charge is nominal.

Is there a nurse in the house?

If your favorite nurse is missing, he or she is probably out in the streets of Boston practicing for the Second Annual Parker House Run For Nurses. On Sunday, April 15, 1984, at noon, more than 500 nurses will begin a four-mile run through the Back Bay from the Parker House on School Street.

They will be raising funds for the American Heart Association in this annual event. Mr. Philip Georgas, General Manager of the Parker House, has enjoyed his involvement with the event. He states, "It is our pleasure to host the run for nurses again in the very good cause they work so hard for." The Parker House provides several prizes as well as brunch for 200 running nurses.

Kathy McKool, R.N., chairperson of the Parker House Run For Nurses Committee stresses, "The run fulfills three important goals for nurses. First, it demonstrates our commitment to a healthy life style. Secondly, it enables us to raise vital funds for the American Heart Association's programs of research, education, and community outreach. Association at 449-5931.

Woodchips

By ANTHONY MANCONI

Cities and towns periodically check their boundary lines. They do that by 'Walking the Bounds.' They make sure that way, that all is in harmony with their neighbors. I performed the same function in regards to the 'Communication Lines' of Woodchips. So I started this week to 'Walk the Bounds' of the Middlesex East Supplement. My purpose was to get a first hand report from the readers.

I covered parts of Winchester, Woburn and Stoneham and will complete the area in the weeks ahead. The very first person I met was a friendly, congenial mailman, Harry McCloud, who puts his 'stamp' of approval on the column, advising me to buy all the 20-cent stamps I can because mail is going up to 23 cents soon. Harry, I am told, was an 'old Indian wrestler' but because of the shortage of 'old Indians' decided to become a mailman.

On the subject of prayer, Harry informed me that before leaving the post office the employees say 'letters pray.' I know the workers at Spence Farm say 'let us pray.' And because of the many abandoned cats and dogs many veterinarians say 'let us pray.' I bet I lost every jeweler who read those 'gems.'

Dan and Mae Holland told me they just got back from a winter in Florida. While swimming there, Danny yelled to his wife, "An alligator just bit my leg." "Which one," Mae asked. "How the heck do I know, they all look alike to me."

Andrew Connolly, a sanitary engineer, who recently returned from Ireland, missed the column while away but said he has been offered a consultant's position with a big sewer company in 'Flushing, Long Island.' Then on to Woburn, where Bill and Rosemary McCullen mentioned that I criticize my wife too much. Incidentally Bill is generally known as 'Mr. Billy Barker.'

Folks, please don't feel sorry for Kathy, you only know or read one side of the story. Believe me, she needs or wants no sympathy. She's a fiery red-headed Maureen O'Hare type with whom I am no match when it comes to 'wit, debate or karate.' She tells everyone who will listen that our marriage was for better or worse. 'I couldn't have done any better and she couldn't have done any worse.'

The reason we've had a beautiful lasting marriage is because we do everything 'together.' We fight, argue and then make up again, 'together.'

She came to me on her hands and knees yesterday. She dared me to come 'out' from under the bed. Dan Hogan is a firefighter who loves the column. Dan told me the Fire Dept. is going to return my dog that I loaned them to find the fire hydrants in the snow banks this winter. I told Dan about my uncle Dennis Tully who was one of the firefighters who responded to a fire backstage of the Old Howard (a burlesque theatre many years ago). It took 20 minutes to put the fire 'out.'

While walking I met my Aunt Maria in Woburn Square. I told her what I was doing and she said, while standing in front of me, "Woodchipper, you're next to an idiot! But," she continued, "your column is too long, you deserve only one 'sentence' like 10 years at 'hard labor'."

The next person I met was John Dennison, chairman of the board of a lumberman's association, who told me a lot of new houses were being built in the area. "Good grief John," I said, "I never heard anyone building any old houses." Florence Magrane is John's lovely secretary. If there are any Norman Rockwells around who need a perfect model for a Mother's Day portrait I certainly recommend Florence from Reading.

I forgot to tell you about Carrie and Tom Mooney's dog, a Labrador Retriever named Holly, that was tied to a corner of the garage, that is until Tom and Carrie noticed the size of the driveway was shrinking. Holly was untied just before pulling the garage clear to the street.

Robert Spence, Jackie Young and her father, Mr. Graham, told me they love the stories about Uncle John Shea of North Reading. John is 86 years old now but just as spry as when he was a longshoreman foreman. He would hire only Irishmen to load or unload the cargo ships in Charlestown. One day my friend Ben Dent asked him for a job. "Are you Irish?" Uncle John bellowed. "No, but my grandmother is," said Ben timidly. "Good, tell her to report to pier four at five in the morning."

Wayne Higden, Lee Preble and Forest (Woody) Knowles, all of Burlington, would like to read more about sports. Wayne remembers when I started the season for Woburn High and promptly walked the first five batters. The coach walked out to the mound, yanked the ball out of my hand, pointed to the fieldhouse and shouted just one word, 'out,' that could be heard in Woburn Square. "Gee coach," I meekly inquired, stammering, "can't you see I've got a 'no hitter' going?"

Wayne's beautiful daughter Nicole Higden asked me if I knew the color of a 'Hic Cup?' "I don't know," I replied. "It's purple." Nicole is nine years old and she wants to read more like that.

Okay. What is the most important use for 'cowhide?' Nope it isn't leather, belts or shoes — it's to help keep the cow 'together.' Here's one more. "Where does a general keep his 'armies'?" In his 'sleeves.' That's okay, if you don't think I'm nuts for telling those gems, my army psychiatrist told me 30 years ago, "Woodchipper, you're crazy!" I demanded and got a second opinion. "You're ugly too!"

Michele Nottebart of Stoneham made my day when she said that her mother cuts out the column and brings it to the law office where she works. Debbie Cunningham of Stoneham, a secretary at Rosetree Plaza, is a new reader of Woodchips. But Ann Murphy has read almost everyone of them. Ann is a biologist and a niece of my friend of many years, Edmond Baratta. My science teacher, Richard Needham dropped a worm in a beaker of water and it swam around and around, even smiled at the class once then he picked it up and put it in a beaker of alcohol and it sunk to the bottom 'dead.' What did you learn from this experiment, he asked. "Mr. Needham," I replied, "If you don't want to get 'worms,' drink alcohol!" Needless to say I flunked Needham's course.

Folks, we don't owe a 'bow, curtsy or kowtow' to any mortal. God has given each one of us a life as a gift — what we do with it is out gift to God. We are wonderfully unique and important, whether one is a king, queen, statesman, movie idol, professional or non-professional, we must each one of us sit on the 'john' and that my friends is the great equalizer. We all have been blessed with a special talent, beautiful singing voice or a flair for writing that we must share with others, and that is the explanation, purpose, and reason for 'Woodchips.'

He attended Yale University Medical School, graduating in 1979. This was followed by a residency in medicine at Waterbury Hospital (affiliated with Yale Medical School). He then served a residency in ophthalmology at the Massachusetts Eye and Ear Infirmary from 1980-83 where he was thoroughly trained in Ophthalmology. This included several methods of cataract extraction as well as phacoemulsification. He was also thoroughly schooled in the implantation of intra-ocular lenses which are now highly successful. They are being used in the majority of selected cataract patients.

He is presently on the staffs of the Choate-Symmes Hospitals, and the Cambridge City Hospital (affiliated with the Harvard Medical School). He is also actively engaged in emergency eye care at the Wilmington Regional Health Center.

He will be practicing with Dr. Alba at his offices located at 132 Pleasant Street, Woburn.

April 2 Running for fitness

A free lecture on "Running for Fitness" will be held at the Regional Health Center in Wilmington on Monday, April 2 from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. featuring Thomas Thrall, M.D., and Mark Manfredi, R.P.T. of Physical Therapy.

Avid runners themselves, both have treated patients who have suffered from running injuries. They will emphasize prevention and causes of common running injuries. Dr. Thrall and Mark Manfredi will discuss the importance of shoe selection and warm-up; and benefits of exercise for the cardiovascular system.

Handouts will be available on the importance of proper equipment, what to look for in running shoes, proper footplant and the mechanics of running.

This lecture is appropriate for those contemplating a running program as it is for those who have been running for years. A question and answer period will follow the lecture.

Brochures will be available on the Lifecourse, the one-and-a-half mile jogging trail on the grounds of the Regional Health Center in Wilmington. It is free and open to the public for walking, running, jogging and cross-country skiing. There are 20 exercise stations which encourage warm-up and cool-down and exercises for different levels which enhance cardiovascular fitness. # Community Concert Association announces '83-'84 schedule

Mrs. Richard Mansur, president of the Greater Stoneham Community Concert Association, announces the selection of concerts for the 1984-85 season, chosen by the Board of Directors and Officers. "We have chosen The New England Youth Ensemble, a talented and internationally acclaimed group of young instrumental players, directed by Virginia Gene Rittenhouse; The Manhattan Rhythm Kings, players of popular music from 1900 to 1940, (Ragtime, Jazz and Swing) tapdancers and singers; Dewayne Fulton, Master Harpist from Lincoln Center who plays classical music side-by-side with popular music from 1900 to the present; and Chanticleer, an ensemble of 10 male a capella male singers, rendering vocal music from the Middle Ages through present day popular music."

Mrs. Mansur stresses that "patrons who join Community Concerts before April 5, will receive a very special bonus this season — Jury's Irish Cabaret show, from Dublin, Ireland — on April 5, 8 p.m. at the Stoneham Senior High School, at 149 Franklin St., just out of Stoneham

Dewayne Fulton

Square. This is a very special, internationally renowned variety show of Irish music, dance and humor, and Stoneham and the North Suburban area are most privileged to host such an event, and it is appropriately close to the celebration of St. Patrick's Day! Memberships will be available at this concert.

"If there was ever a season to join Community Concerts, this is it! A new member will enjoy five excellent programs in Stoneham their first season. But the most outstanding fact about Community Concerts is the reciprocal arrangement with other Community Concert Associations. A Reciprocity List is furnished to all our members so that they may choose from the 3 to 5 concerts presented by each Community Concert Association in Massachusetts (in Salem, Lowell, Framingham, Fitchburg, and Worcester) and in New Hampshire (in Dover, Nashua, Portsmouth, Concord and Manchester), all within an hour's drive from Stoneham. However, members are not limited by the Reciprocity List; the membership card admits the bearer to any Community Concert in the United States."

All five local concerts in Stoneham are arranged for the fall or spring seasons, to avoid the winter driving conditions, and close-at-hand to our area and

The artistic programs include classical to pops music, jazz to musical comedy, medieval to folk music, ragtime to swing. Instrumentalists include most of those of a modern symphony orchestra, and a few folk in-

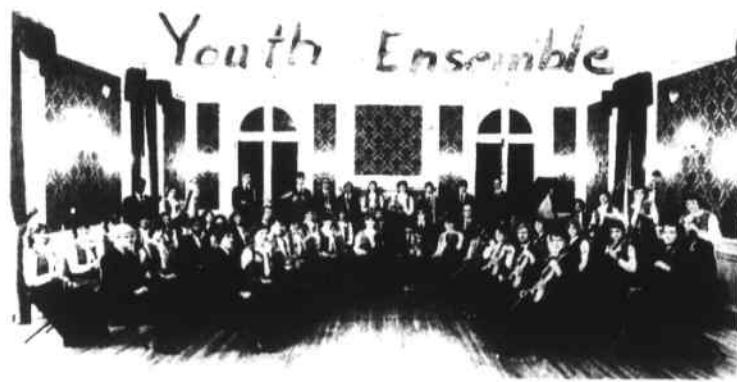

are so full of tempo that they steam the creases right out of their pants."

DeWayne Fulton is a recognized master of standard harp repertoire, but his diversity extends to improvisation, popular music (which he believes is good music if played and interpreted artistically) early 20th century. Broadway & show tunes, and folk music from around the world side-by-side with the classics. He was the first American to become a member of the Berlin Philharmonic as Principal Harpist, and has been a member of Vienna Philharmonic, Staatsoper Orchestras, Honolulu and Istanbul Symphonies, and he has toured Europe as a soloist. He made his debut at the Lincoln Center in 1983, playing an Irish folk harp, a concert grand, and a grand with especially devised electronic sound — in a program of classical, popular and folk music.

Chanticleer, a gifted group of male singers, has become widely acclaimed among groups of its kind. Growing out of a volunteer chorus formed in 1978, it has developed into a professional ensemble with a demanding performance schedule of national and international touring and recording. Their programs are drawn from the rich male-voice tradition of the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries, and other styles up through twentieth century pop and avant-garde.

Wenatchee, Washington World writes "This group is without doubt for people of all ages. They are the gourmet of men's choruses."

Membership Week for Greater Stoneham Community Concerts will be April 2-7. Headquarters will be at the Stoneham Pharmacy, 409 Main St., Stoneham Square. Hours will be 1-5 p.m. Monday through Friday, and 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturday. For further information call 438-7449, or 438-9232 or 944-5262.

there is always free parking at Community Concerts.

"Godspell"

Prior to the early 1970's, themes for Broadway musicals were derived primarily from love stories, established legends or heroes, Shakespearean drama, or American short stories. In 1971, composer Stephen Schwartz, while searching for a "different" source for his new musical, stumbled upon the oldest story of all, the Bible. He used the New Testament's Gospel of Matthew as an inspiration for "Godspell," which was at best, a novel but highly speculative idea for audiences who were used to more conventional musical theatre.

Audiences loved the small cast dressed in bizarre, but symbolic costumes, and "Godspell" became a wildly successful creative translation of the Gospel's spiritual message of peace and love. As a bonus, one song became a popular success; "Day by Day" could be heard on radio stations for well over a year after it was first introduced.

The North Reading Theatre Workshop is pleased to present "Godspell," directed by Paul D. Greene of Andover, on Friday, April 13 at 8:00 p.m. and Saturday, April 14 at 2:00 p.m. and 8:00 p.m. at North Reading High School. In keeping with the spirit of the show and the holiday season, the N.R.T.W. is donating a portion of its ticket proceeds to the Easter Seals, the organization dedicated to eradicating birth defects. For more information or tickets, please contact Juli Wood at 664-3949 or Maeve Bradley at 664-3731.

Frivolous with IRS? It costs $500

Don't be frivolous with the IRS. It can cost you $500. If you send in your tax return with nothing but your name, that's frivolous. Or if you attach a note to your return saying you believe the constitution forbids the collection of an income tax, the IRS regards that as frivolous. On the other hand, if you willfully attempt to evade paying income tax, there's nothing frivolous about that. That could get you five years in jail.

To stay on the right side of the law, you should know about IRS rules and penalties covering a failure to prepare your income tax return correctly, according to the Massachusetts Society of CPAs.

To put it simply, three things can happen if you don't abide by federal tax laws. You may be charged penalties that range from half of one percent to 50 percent of your tax deficiency, depending on the seriousness of the violation. You may be charged interest on top of the penalty. (Ironically, the interest on tax deficiencies is tax-deductible. The current interest rate is 11 percent.) The third alternative is to spend time in jail. Though criminal prosecution is reserved for only the most serious violations, it may be comforting to know that Federal prisons generally have accommodations superior to county or state correctional facilities.

The most common penalty taxpayers face is for late filing. More than 13 million 1982 individual returns were filed late. Late filers are charged a five percent penalty for each month their liability remains unpaid, for up to five months. So on a $100 liability, a late filer must pay $5 for the first month, $10 for two months and up to $25 for five months. After five months, the penalty is reduced to half of one percent. Thus, after six months the penalty on a $100 unpaid liability is $25.50.

To avoid late penalties, CPAs advise taxpayers to get a four-month extension on your filing date by sending in Form 4868 by April 16 and paying the estimated amount of taxes you owe.

A new penalty concerns Social Security numbers. Many taxpayers have already received notification from banks requesting their Social Security number. Failure to provide it to a bank or other reporting institution can result in a $50 penalty and you will be subject to automatic withholding on 20 percent of your interest and dividend income. Failure to provide the IRS with your Social Security number means a $5 penalty. That's part of the federal government's effort to clamp down on those who underreport interest or dividend income. By the way, you could be hit with a $500 penalty if you falsely report interest and dividend income.

Penalties for filing late or not providing a Social Security number are clear cut cases for the IRS. Other cases, however, are more subjective, and the facts surrounding a particular instance determine the size and severity of the penalty. As an example, consider the way the IRS looks at negligence and fraud.

Fraud, to the IRS, is the intentional violation of tax law. If a substantial amount of money is involved or if there is a long history of illegal activity, criminal tax fraud is punishable by up to five years in jail. The penalty can also be monetary, and you may be ordered to pay a penalty equal to 50 percent of the liability — on top of the tax owed. Where taxpayers have defrauded the government, but the violation is determined to be less heinous, you may face a penalty for negligence. This is the more common type of malfeasance discovered in returns.

Negligence occurs when a taxpayer unintentionally but incorrectly takes improper deductions or otherwise understates tax liability. The penalties for negligence vary according to the seriousness of the offense. In most cases, the penalty is either 10 percent of the underpayment or $5,000, whichever is greater. In addition, you must pay what the IRS says you originally owed, plus any interest that has accrued.

Elderly bills ask state control

Baystate legislators may be accustomed to receiving puzzling messages in their constituent mail — but for the first time members of the General Court are receiving actual puzzle parts through the mail. The puzzling mail is coming from senior citizens across the state in support of legislation that would piece together the state's fragmented long term care system.

The bills, S.805 and H.1764, would end what elder advocates call "the confusing non-system" of community based care for the

"Coping with Aging"

Do your aging relatives often make you feel guilty? Do they make demands on your time? Are you unsure about making decisions for that person?

These and other issues will be discussed in an educational and supportive discussion group for those who are assuming a caretaker role for an elderly relative. "Coping With Aging Relatives" will be conducted by Cindy R. Levine, L.I.C.S.W., social worker, at the Regional Health Center in Wilmington.

"Seeing someone close to us grow older arouses many feelings," says Cindy Levine, "helping our aging relatives can be both a highly rewarding and stressful experience."

This group will enable those caring for an increasingly dependent elderly person to share concerns with others. Group meetings, held on Wednesdays, April 4 through May 9 from 7 to 9 p.m., will focus on societal perceptions of aging; the role of the care-taker and decision-maker; stresses on the family; psychological aspects of aging; and dealing with guilt and other feelings; community resources; and getting needed support for yourself.

Each meeting will include a presentation and time for group discussion and problem-solving. The film "When Parents Grow Old" will be shown. A handout on community resources will be provided.

The group is limited to 12 participants and a minimal fee will be charged. To pre-register, call 657-3910, ext. 567.

The Regional Health Center is a division of Choate-Symmes Health Services, Inc.

elderly by placing all such services within the state Executive Office of Elder Affairs. According to Daniel O'Leary, Executive Director of Mystic Valley Elder Services, Inc., this "single state agency" concept in Massachusetts is long overdue. "If a family is trying to find community care for an elderly relative, they could end up dealing with several state agencies and a host of service packages to help an elder remain in the community." The bills were designed to lock together the separate health and social services that characterize the non-system today. Home Care Corporations, for example, provide many social services, but health services are provided through Visiting Nurse Associations and Home Health Agencies. Some services are funded by Medicare, some by Medicaid, and some with state funds. "S.805 mandates one-stop shopping for community care," O'Leary added. "It would end the runaround."

The legislation authorizes the state's Department of Elder Affairs to designate local community long term care agencies, whose job it would be to oversee the entire service package for an elderly — social and health services — regardless of funding source.

Without these bills, the Mass. Association of Home Care Corporations claims that the state will continue to waste money on costly institutional care for elders who could remain in the community. Noting that the Commonwealth still spends $5 or $6 dollars on institutional care for the elderly for every $1 on community care, the Home Care Corporations insist that if the alternatives to a nursing home don't become easier to access, the state can expect continuing problems in its Medicaid budget.

"These bills aren't just important to elders and their families," O'Leary said. "Taxpayers foot the bill for three out of every four nursing home residents. If we can stop puzzling families and really help them get the community care they want, we could target our tax dollars much more effectively. For that to happen we need to consolidate existing services and present them in a unified system."

The legislature's Human Services and Elderly Affairs Committee will hear these long term care puzzle bills on Monday, March 19th in Gardner Auditorium.

It's expected that many of those testifying will be bringing puzzle pieces with them to present to members of the committee.

Quality time: what it means

By Deborah Churchman
Special to The Christian Science Monitor

Washington
THE other day a working mother in the Chicago area told Bernice Weissbourd, head of a local family-support group, that she'd scheduled 6:30 to 7:30 as "quality time" for her child.

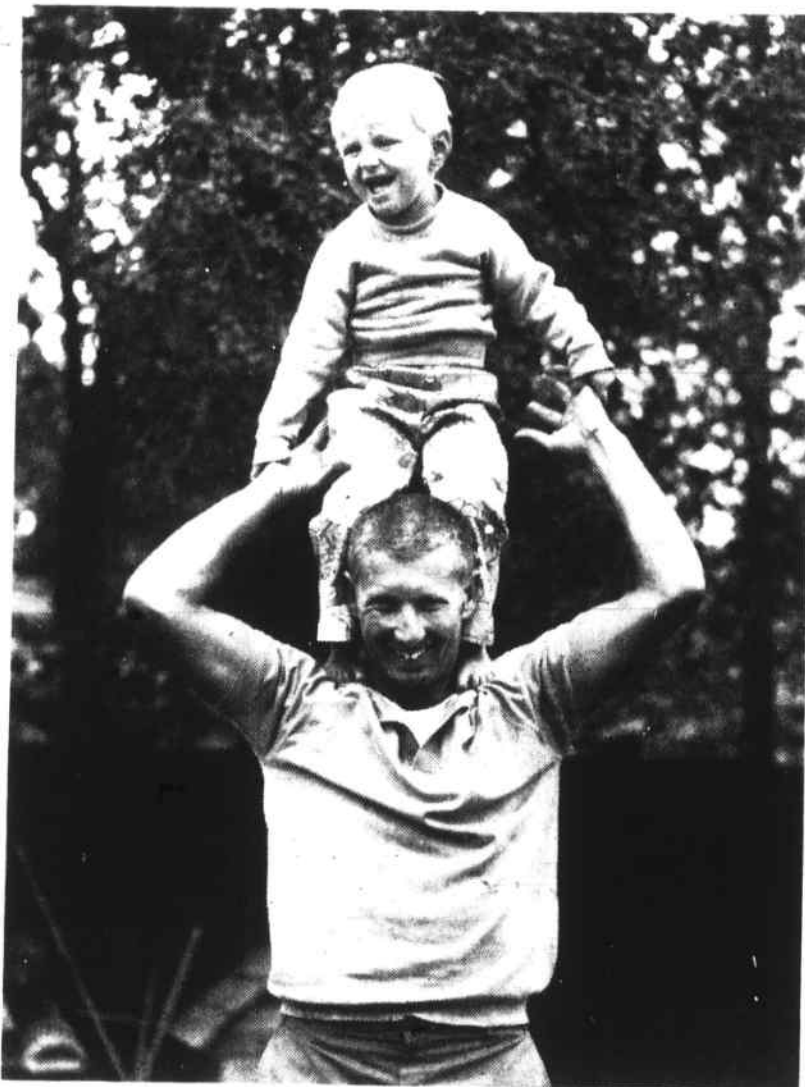

Sometimes, however, her child didn't seem to want her to play at that time. "What should I do?" she asked.

That question gets right to the issue of whether the concept of "quality time" is truly serving children and, possibly, unduly burdening parents.

"I don't even like the word 'time.' It's not time that's at issue here, but the quality of the child's life," says Mrs. Weissbourd. "Quality time for me doesn't mean doing a special project with the child, but being available for that child if he comes to show you a tower of blocks he's built or asks you to help him build another," she says.

Dr. Alison Clarke-Stewart, an education professor at the University of California at Irvine, was perhaps the first to describe quality time in print in the early 1970s. She speaks of the myth that "it's quality, not quantity" of time that counts between parents and children. The mother who called Mrs. Weissbourd, says Dr. Clarke-Stewart, thought that such quality could be scheduled and doled out "like ice cream."

And if that mother seemed confused over what "quality time" means, consider how the experts define it. It has been construed as everything from the absolute, admiring attention parents are supposed to give children, to "any time you spend with your child, as long as it's not negative," says one expert. It's a term that washed in on the tidal wave of women returning to the job market. Its purpose,

At issue: not how much time a parent schedules, but the total quality of the child's life supposedly, is to soothe the guilt pangs over leaving children in nonparental care.

Guided by such child-rearing experts, parents are made to feel that (1) they should serve as perfect role models to their children 24 hours each day; (2) they really don't need to tune into their children more than about "15 minutes per day, per child"; (3) every experience they have with their children must be a positive one, with the child's desires and action taking precedence over everything else; or (4) the child benefits by learning that he's not the only one in the world with needs and expectations.

"I think [the concept of quality time] is used to validate women returning to work," says Dr. Clarke-Stewart. "And that's wrong. There are many perfectly valid reasons for women to go back to work. They shouldn't have to tell themselves, 'It's the quality, not the quantity that counts,'" says the professor, a single mother to her three-year-old son, Christopher.

Staying at home full time with your child doesn't guarantee a high quality childhood either. Mrs. Weissbourd points out, saying that "if you're there but you're tuning your child out or being very critical of your child, that's not quality."

Says Karen Schlenker, a farm wife in Minnesota, "The fact is that there's a heck of a lot to do if you stay home. But still, child rearing is often an afterthought and only begrudgingly given. That's still the most important and least recognized part — it's tough, undefined, maybe undefinable, and nonstop."

Regardless of whether a parent is available for some or all of the day, the question of time spent with the child should not be "quality or quantity," says Dr. Clarke-Stewart, "but the quantity of that quality." The question for her is not "how much time are you as a parent giving your child," but how much quality that child is getting throughout the day from everyone in his life, she thinks. "What's the good of giving 30 minutes of ice cream to a child who is starving?" she asks, saying that parents should ensure that their children also get quality time from whoever takes care of them during the day.

For Mrs. Weissbourd, that's begging the question of quality time. "The essence is the relationship between the child and parent. Of course, the child should get good care from the day-care center — that's crucial. But the question is, what kind of relationship is developing between the parent and child?"

"That's a beautiful thing that happens between parent and child that takes time," says Mrs. Weissbourd, a new grandmother to twins, "but it's not dependent on setting aside 15 minutes or two hours a day of quality time. It comes from putting the child first, letting the child

The Peace Corps looking for grads

The Peace Corps is offering skill-training for programs utilizing the backgrounds of qualified personnel. At present the literacy rate in most developing nations remains low with less than 10 percent of the children completing secondary school, and less than 1 percent receiving university educations. Peace Corps volunteers serve for two years. During their service they receive a generous living allowance, paid travel, training and health care. A post-service readjustment allowance of $175 per month (about $4,200) is paid to each volunteer. Former Peace Corps volunteers have one year of non-competitive eligibility status for federal employment. Retired people are particularly encouraged to consider the Peace Corps since the readjustment and living allowances generally do not affect social security benefits. During the past 23½ years approximately 100,000 Americans have served with the Peace Corps.

These special trainings have been instituted to fill the increasing demand for highly skilled volunteers. Peace Corps officials admit that graduates with skills in mathematics and science are in great demand by industry here in the United States. Hence, there are fewer graduates in these fields who are available to spend two years in developing countries overseas. Peace Corps is also looking to retirees to fill a number of these math and science positions.

Sixty-four developing nations currently field Peace Corps volunteers in order to improve educational, nutritional, and health options for their peoples. The hope is that the presence of

FREE booklet on cancer prevention tips

There is finally some good news about cancer. The National Cancer Institute has just launched a major cancer prevention awareness campaign to help American's reduce their cancer risk.

The new cancer prevention effort is based on the results of a national survey announced this week by Secretary of Health and Human Services, Margaret Heckler which revealed that nearly half of all Americans think that there is nothing they can do to prevent cancer, and that most Americans do not realize cancer is often affected by life-style choices. 80 percent of all cancer cases are tied to the way people live their lives. For example, the food they eat, the work they do, and whether they smoke all affect the likelihood of getting cancer.

The campaign focuses on reducing those cancer risks people can control themselves, by making changes in diet, and other habits. To help get the message out the Massachusetts Cancer Information Service is offering a special booklet full of cancer prevention tips. A free copy of the booklet may be obtained by calling the Cancer Information Service at 1-800-4-CANCER.

The Massachusetts Cancer Information Service is part nationwide cancer communications network funded by the National Cancer Institute and operated under the joint sponsorship of the Regional Cancer Control Program; the American Cancer Society, Massachusetts Division, the America

College of Surgeons, Massachusetts Chapter, the Massachusetts Medical Society and the Dana-Farber Cancer Institute, Boston.

Major Excavation site guide available

Exploration and investigation of ancient civilizations that was once the private domain of scholars and scientists has now become a major fascination for a growing cult of worldwide travelers.

As an aid to travelers, Archaeology Magazine, the official publication of the Archaeological Institute of America, has prepared a handy guide to 136 major excavation sites around the world where ongoing investigations are uncovering more secrets and facets of ancient civilizations. The 16-page insert "Travel Guide to the Ancient World" included in the March/April issue of Archaeology Magazine covers all of the world's major regions outside of North America - Africa, Asia and Pacific, Caribbean, Europe, Middle and Near East, and South and Central America. For each of the 136 sites, information is provided on the exact location, dates and times open, fees (if any), local contact people (with telephone numbers), local accommodations and restaurants as well as nearby points of interest.

Copies of this guide can be obtained for $3.75 per copy from Archaeology Magazine, Dept. G, 15 Park Row, New York, New York 10038.

For those interested in actually participating in an archaeological excavation, the Archaeological Institute of America produces an annual Archaeological Fieldwork Opportunities

Bulletin. It contains descriptions of excavations seeking staff, field schools offering archaeological training and study tours or special programs focusing on archaeology. It can be obtained for $6 per copy from Archaeology Magazine, Dept. G, 15 Park Row, New York, New York 10038.

From a swing band to swinging a shovel, from an Ironman qualifier to a Scrabble tournament, COMING ATTRACTIONS has someone. We've got things for you to do that you didn't even know you wanted to try. But if we bypassed an event of interest to all that you know about, write, care of this local newspaper, and tell us all about it. We'll be huffing along Spot Pond waiting for your announcements.
